

PLANTS CLOSED

By the Strike of Fifteen Hundred Men Today

The Cambridge Ohio, Steel Mill Closed Indefinitely Today

Railways About to Present a United Front to the Labor Unions By Cutting Off Employees Says a Western Railroad Man at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Fifteen hundred sausage makers at the stock yards struck today, the packers having refused to grant them the concessions demanded in the wage scale. They earn from 16 to 25 cents an hour and asked for an advance of 2 1/2 cents.

No show of violence attended the strike. The packing companies did not try to operate the sausage departments with non-union men.

The number of men out on strike in sausage plants tied up completely follows: Armour & Co., 300; Swift & Co., 300; Nelson Morris & Co., 270; Hammond Packing Co., 160; Continental Packing Co., 176; Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Co., 200; Anglo-American Provision Co., 100.

WHOLE FORCE STRUCK.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—The entire working force of the International Tailoring company, 1,600 men and women, went on strike Friday in sympathy with their fellow workers who were locked out by the New York house of the same firm a week ago because they formed a union and joined the United Garment Workers of America.

STEEL PLANT CLOSED.

Cambridge, O., Oct. 24.—The Cambridge Steel plant closed indefinitely today. The office force was relieved and 600 men are out of employment. Lack of orders is given as the cause.

RAILWAYS AND UNIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—"The railways are about to present a united front to the labor unions. Already there is a move on foot to reduce the pay rolls by 10 per cent."

Such was the statement made today by an executive of a leading western line. The plan at present does not contemplate a reduction in wages, it was said, but the working force is to be reduced in every possible way.

Retrenchments are to be made in certain lines where the companies can most easily reduce forces, such as car shops, repair shops, maintenance of way department, and improvement corps.

The passenger train service is to be rearranged so as to get along with as few trains as possible. All trains on branch lines which do not pay are to be taken off.

BIG FAILURE

Was the Effort to Get a Crowd for the Hanna Meeting at Shawnee. IT WAS A FROST.

Shawnee, Oct. 24.—The people did not turn out to Boss Hanna's meeting here last night to any great extent, and was far from Republican expectations. The special train sent out from Newark at a big expense paid by the Republican State Committee, to gather up a crowd at all the stations between Thornport and Shawnee, and which was counted on to bring from 800 to 1,000 people, was a galling disappointment to the Hanna leaders. At some of the stations only 3 or 4 people got on the train, and at Junction City, where 500 were expected, only 50 could be mustered up to go, and the train reached here with only 93 passengers, all told. It was a disappointment that caused Republican managers to indulge in profanity. The meeting, too, was a frost in every sense.

Octogenarians Wed.

Dillsboro, Ind., Oct. 24.—Henry Moore, 82, and Della J. Elsberry, 80, were married Friday. This is the groom's second marital venture and the bride's third marriage contract.

DOWIE

Mysteriously Leaves New York. But Said in Boston He Would Return at Once.

New York, Oct. 24.—Guarding his movements with all possible secrecy, Dowie left New York at midnight for Boston, carrying his family and baggage with him in his private car. He absolutely declined to indicate when he would return to this city and the information obtained was that he intends to sail with his family for Australia. It was impossible to ascertain last night whether any provision had been made for the members of the Zion restoration host now at Madison Square Garden, either for their return to Zion City or for their maintenance while here.

Dowie was seen this morning in Boston and said he would return to New York this afternoon.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Consul General Guenther of Frankfurt, Germany, has discovered a new vocation for women, that of "X-ray nurses." He says that courses of lectures for these nurses will soon be commenced in Berlin. These women will only serve as nurses of patients treated by X-rays and as assistants in use of them, which service is of a very delicate nature, requiring great care.

West End Runaway.

A runaway occurred in the West End Saturday. Mr. N. McKeown, the fruit dealer, was driving along Union street when his horse frightened and ran away. He dashed east on the street, and collided with a farmer's buggy, the occupant of which was thrown out and painfully injured. The horse then ran against a hitching post and collided with another buggy. All three of the vehicles were badly damaged.

Social Friends.
The Social Friends are requested to meet at Mrs. Bowers' Monday, October 25, at usual hour. By order of President.

PARDON

Is Granted the Oldest Man In the Ohio Pen.

Columbus, Oct. 24.—The oldest man in the Ohio penitentiary was pardoned today by Governor Nash that he may enjoy a brief period of freedom before he dies. The prisoner is Jas. W. Erwin, aged 87, who has been in the penitentiary for 23 years. He was sent up from Gallia county in 1880 to serve a life sentence for killing his son.

DYNAMITE

Let Go Shattering Window Panes Two Miles Away—Car Blown to Splinters.

New York, Oct. 24.—Dynamite and gunpowder stored in a car of an east-bound freight train on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad exploded today when the train was just south of the trestle over Pelham Bay and the residents of Baychester, City Island and intervening villages were thrown into a panic. The explosion blew the four rear cars off the track and set them on fire. So violent was the explosion that walls shook and window panes were shattered within a radius of two miles and the people thought that an earthquake was shaking their homes about their heads. Fortunately no one was injured, as there was no caboose attached to the train.

The explosion was caused by the train parting and the rear portion running into the forward section. The jar was sufficient to explode the stored dynamite, and with a roar that could be heard for miles, one of the cars was blown to splinters. The brakeman, who was running back to set the brakes on the detached section, was blown to the ground. He landed in a mud bank and escaped injury. He says that when the dynamite let go the car opened up like a giant firecracker and a sheet of flame leaped fifty feet into the air. The car was shivered from end to end.

Blair Denies Charge.

St. Louis, Oct. 24.—A sensation was created here by the statement before the grand jury of the alleged methods of Jas. L. Blair, counsel for the world's fair. Among the allegations are that he uttered forged notes, certificates of title and bogus deeds of trust, the aggregate amount of these alleged crooked dealings being $403,960. In both instances Blair is said to have confessed and offered restitution. Blair denies all the allegations and fiercely denounces his accusers.

THE FALL ELECTION DATE IS ALMOST HERE.

Columbus, Oct. 24.—While the result of the election one week from Tuesday may be problematical there is no element of doubt in the proposition that it will present a test to the Democratic organization in this state and that in order to survive this test and to perpetuate the organization for future usefulness it must be met courageously in every county.

It is admitted that the best means to this end is not only the loyal, but the enthusiastic support of county tickets in all parts of the state. Herein lies the Democratic opportunity of the present hour. There are the best of reasons for declaring that with such support there is every probability that the material selections of the political machinery now operated by the Republicans may be wrested from them and the number of important county offices now filled by Democrats vastly increased. The party has a chance to emerge from the ordeal of the election greatly strengthened for the presidential contest and the strength or weakness of its position in this state will be very largely determined by local results in the several counties. Now, perhaps more than ever before, hard work for home interests should be the devoted object of the party in Ohio.

It develops that the Republicans this year have two separate and distinct campaign funds, and this fact is said to be making all kinds of trouble for the regular organization represented by Chairman Dick and Secretary Malloy. These two worthies are dispensing the bundle of money from Republican office holders, the protected corporations and voluntary contributions of patriotic followers of the G.

NEWARK GIRL

PREFERS REFORM SCHOOL TO HER HOME.

Rescued by Columbus Police Friday Night and Brought Home by Her Mother Saturday.

Columbus, Oct. 24.—Lucy Offenbaker was rescued last night by Officers Howard and O'Gara. She was found in a resort on Seventh street where she had been brought by Carrie Shaduck, who is known to the police. The girl is 16 years old. She ran away from her home in Newark yesterday. Her father, John Offenbaker, is a restaurant man at 221 Main street, Newark.

The girl says she is cruelly treated at home and would rather go to the reform school than return.

Word was received at the Offenbaker home this morning of the whereabouts of Miss Lucy, and Mrs. Offenbaker left on the first train for Columbus, and returned on the afternoon train bringing her daughter home with her. To an Advocate reporter Miss Lucy said that the report that she was found in a low resort is not true. She said that she had been badly treated at home by her mother, and it was for that reason that she had gone away.

For Newark: Fair with rising temperature tonight and Sunday.

Vote Deferred.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The Pan-American Congress of Protestant Episcopal bishops, in session here, has decided to defer the vote on the important question of divorce and remarriage. Opponents of absolute prohibition of remarriage after divorce induced the congress to drop the matter just before the vote was about to be taken. The bishops heard only one side of the question discussed, that of the advocates of prohibition. Rev. Mackay Smith, coadjutor of Pennsylvania, argued that to vote on the question without hearing the other side would be taking snap judgment on the matter.

ACME HARVESTER CO.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Application to have the Acme Harvester company of Peoria adjudged a bankrupt has been made in United States district court of that city. The petition was presented before Judge Kohlsaat. The judge was unwilling to act on this matter at once and the hearing was continued until Monday. The liabilities are $2,500,000 and the assets are reported at four millions.

Home Guards.

The Home Guard of America held an important meeting attended by a number of members from Zanesville. Refreshments were served.

LOUISE

Begs to See Her Children But Request is Refused.

Berlin, Oct. 24.—The Crown Princess Louise of Saxony, who created a scandal some months ago by eloping with M. Giron, a French tutor, has appealed to her former husband, Crown Prince Frederick, to be allowed to see her children at Christmas time. The Crown Prince replied that he was willing, but that King George, his father, would not allow it.

INSPECTION

Of Company G by Cois. Miller and Ames—Gen. Gyger Visits Camp Ground Saturday.

Colonel Miller and Colonel Ames were in Newark Friday and inspected company G. In the afternoon the gentlemen were at the state camp grounds inspecting the stores and grounds.

Colonel Miller said the company was in fine condition, but that he had never in all his travels over the state seen such a poor army.

General Gyger was in Newark Saturday with Colonel Miller and both visited the camp grounds to test the rifle range.

Flushing, O., Oct. 24.—Besides town marshal John Elliott who was killed in a riot here by negroes last night, one negro is certain to die and two others are seriously wounded. Sheriff Major and posse who arrived after Elliott was killed this morning got inside the hut where the negroes were barricaded all night and got three of the four men who were almost dead from bullet wounds. All have been removed to the jail at St. Clairsville to prevent lynching. The man who shot Marshal Elliott escaped but is said to be badly wounded and will probably be caught before many hours. The negroes had been robbing the railroad laborers in camp and selling illicit whiskey.

Death at Summit.

Summit Station, O., Oct. 24.—Crelend Lentz, who has been employed here by J. P. Kirkpatrick & Son since September 24, died last evening and the body has been taken to Gahanna. Mr. Lentz was about 40 years of age.

It is alleged that Mr. Lentz has been indulging freely in the use of Perina, taking two or three bottles a day. The physician, when asked this morning about the cause of death, said that he went by the "Perina route." Perina is doubtless all right in proper doses, but one cannot drink it or any other medicine as freely as water.

BROWN SURRENDERS

New Holland Cashier Comes to End of His String

Says the Bank's Thousands Were Used in Speculation

Walks Into Prison at San Francisco and Says He Wants to Be Sent Back to Ohio to Face the Music and It's a Sad Tune.

Circleville, O., Oct. 21.—Cashier J. K. Brown, of the New Holland bank, who made away with about $100,000 of the bank's funds, has surrendered to the police at San Francisco. His wife and two little boys are in New Holland.

Today Attorney Charles May took papers to Columbus to be signed by the governor and Sheriff Hoover and Prosecuting Attorney Gerhardt will go at once to California for the prisoner. The following dispatch from San Francisco tells the story:

"John K. Brown, fugitive from New Holland, O., where as cashier of the Union bank, wearing a black eye and in the generally unstrung condition of a man just recovering from a long debauch, walked into police headquarters, made known his identity and asked to be sent back to face the music."

Brown stated that his was the old story of attempting to get rich by speculating with other men's money, placed in his keeping, and then sending good money after bad, in an attempt to recoup his losses. He says he lived well within his salary of $1,200, and that none of the money stolen went into his own pocket or was used for his own pleasures. He insists that it all went into the maw of Cincinnati brokerage firms.

Brown denies that there was any woman mixed up in the matter. He says none of the money was spent upon women. He declares that he had barely $1,000 when he left New Holland, and that all of that has been spent in his efforts to escape arrest. The last of it, he says, was stolen from him while he was on a drunk. Brown states that he has been in San Francisco twice since he left New Holland, remaining here nearly a week the first time waiting for the departure of a steamer for Honolulu, and arriving here the second time from Honolulu, October 13. He admits that he has been drinking heavily.

Brown said: "When I left New Holland no one knew I had been taking money from the bank. It had all gone into speculation. I finally got in so deep that I could see no way out, and knew it was only a question of time before the defalcation would be discovered. When I left New Holland I went directly to New Orleans, but remained only over night, going from there to Mexico City. I have been on the jump ever since I left home. Every man I would meet I would think was a chief of police after me. I changed my name every place I went and did not dare to stay in any one place more than a few days at the longest, and in most places I stayed only one day. From New Orleans I came to San Francisco.

"In some of the places I tried to get work, but in my business a man has to give references, and those, of course, I could not furnish. In Mexico, however, I met a man who told me I would have no trouble in finding work in Honolulu, and on that account I went to the islands.

"At Honolulu I had no better fortune than in the other attempts to get employment.

"When I got back here I even tried to get employment as a laborer, but could not."

was shot in the head, hand and legs and received nearly two dozen shot in the back.

He became weak from his wounds and surrendered. An alleged accomplice was arrested later.

OPENING

OF FINE NEW STORE IN UNION BLOCK SATURDAY.

Mr. Horton Says Stock Will be Doubled in a Few Days—Many Visit New Book Store.

The opening of the new book store of the A. L. Norton company in the Union block today, was a success in every particular. Large numbers of people visited the store during the day and each was presented with a souvenir.

Only about half of the large stock had arrived in time for the opening, but Mr. Norton expects to have the entire stock on the shelves and in the cases by the middle of next week. A full line of goods, stationery and sporting goods is carried. Miss Ketter, of this city, will be the head clerk.

Newark people will welcome the new store, which promises to be one of Newark's leading business institutions. The Gallipolis Journal prints the following regarding Mr. Norton, the manager of the new store:

"Mr. A. L. Norton leaves Gallipolis tomorrow for Newark, O., where he will embark in the book and stationery business under the firm name of The A. L. Norton Co. Newark is a city of over 21,000 population and has but one book store, so it would seem to be a most desirable location for an active young stationer."

"During the two years in which Mr. Norton has conducted business in Gallipolis he has shown industry, activity, talent and the qualities that make a good salesman. That he will be successful in Newark his friends here have no doubt, and he leaves Gallipolis with the assurance that his departure is regretted by a large number of business and personal friends."

Oldest Father.

Richmond, O., Oct. 24.—Richard Pull of Belle Center, claims to be the oldest father in Ohio. He is 78 years old and has just become the father of a nine pound son. His second wife, whom he married two years ago, is not half his age.

JEALOUS

Of Miss Brantch, Lukens Tries to Kill Her.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 24.—Insanely jealous of Sophia Brantch, John Lukens last night tried to choke her and pour vitriol down her throat. Her brother interfered and shot Lukens three times. Lukens was able to drag himself away and then drank a quart of vitriol. Later he was sent to the hospital. He cannot live.

COLLEGE

At Marietta Will Get Author Stucken-berg's Estate if Dogmatism Rules Another School.

Cambridge, Mass., October 24.—Rev. J. H. W. Stuckenberg, the well known Cambridge author, who died abroad May 23, 1903, gave his widow a life interest in his estate, and at her death it is to be disposed of as follows:

"The Goethe album, Humboldt desk and Humboldt secretary and all other Humboldt relics, historical maps, oil paintings, etc., are to be given to Pennsylvania college at Gettysburg. Five thousand dollars is for scholarship. Whatever property remains after this $5,000 is to be given for endowing a professorship of sociology. If there is not enough for that purpose, say $30,000, the trustees are requested to add such amount as may be left from my estate it is to be used for the same purpose as the above $5,000.

"If my wife survives me I hereby authorize and direct her that in case Pennsylvania college, in her judgment is made to subvert dogmatism and traditionalism instead of a progressive, living Christianity, to transfer all my possessions to Marietta college, situated at Marietta, O."

SOCIETY EVENTS

OF THE WEEK.

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Belle Havens entertained very delightfully with a musicale at her beautiful country home, south of the city. The guest of honor was Mrs. Harrie Hutchinson, of Columbus. The program was given by Mrs. Hutchinson and Mr. Walter Ball, and was composed of the following songs: "Ode to Bacchus," Chantade; "May Day," R. H. Walther; Johnson; "One," Lambert, Mrs. Hutchinson; "The Wooing," Sieveking; "The Angelus," Howard, Mr. Walter Ball; "Auf Wiedersehen," Max Bendix; "Teach Me the Charm," Johnson, Mrs. Hutchinson; "A Rose Table," Hawley; "An Irish Love Song," Margaret Ruthven Lang, Mr. Walter Ball. Miss Ickes was the accompanist.

Mrs. Hutchinson is a frequent visitor in Newark, where she has many friends, and Mr. Ball is spending a short time at home. It was a great pleasure to hear them both sing.

Assisting Miss Havens were Miss Simonds, Miss Elma Groves and Miss Julia McCune. The guests present were: Mrs. Albert Rosebrough, Mrs. Clarence White, Mrs. Groves, Mrs. Charles McGruder, Mrs. Howard Jones, Mrs. H. D. Woodbridge, Mrs. Martha Wright, Mrs. Fred Wright, Mrs. Chas. Rankin, Mrs. Ernest Johnson, Mrs. John Carroll, Mrs. Harry Swisher, Miss Eva Mosteller, Miss Carrie Mosteller, Miss Mary Sprague, Miss Mary Robbins, Miss Kittie Simonds, Miss Webb, Miss Nellie McCune, Miss Julia McCune, Miss Lillian Rhoads, Miss Ickes, Miss Elma Spencer, Miss Lisle, Miss Mary Baldwin and Miss Groves, Mrs. Dundy, of Lincoln, Neb.; Mrs. Frank Hubbard, Mrs. James Hannah, Mrs. Harrie Hutchinson and Miss Hutchinson, of Columbus.

A charming surprise party was given for Miss Mabel Thorp Thursday evening. Those present were: Misses Anna Everts, Josephine Voole, Mollie Everts, Bessie Everts, Minnie Beck, Kate Staugh, Minnie Shafer, Myrtle Vogel, Mabel Thorp and Messrs. Ota Stevens, David Everts, Russell Stevens, John Wise, George Wise, George Beck, Harry Vogel, William Vogel, Clyde Hipple, Henry Staugh and Henry Thorp.

On last Saturday afternoon Mrs. G. W. Jones gave a juvenile surprise party in honor of her little son, Master Jenkins. Everything was done to make it a happy day for the little ones. The guests were: Rachel Jones, Florence Sawyer, Doris Hankinson, Charlie Sawyer, Othie Stricklin, Bernice Perry, Hazel Sawyer, Emory Vance, Chester Vance, Indus Vance, Clark Sawyer, Edward Hartman, Helen Sawyer, Camille Sawyer, Mrs. Hartman, Mrs. Vance, Mrs. Hankinson, Mrs. Cramer, Miss Hankinson and Mrs. J. Mrs. D. M. Black will entertain next Thursday afternoon from 2 till 5.

Mr. H. H. Powers, the popular Granville dry goods merchant, was very pleasantly surprised on last Thursday evening by the Powers & Miller clerks of Newark. They chartered a special car, which left here at 7 p. m., and carried a jolly crowd, bent upon having an evening of pleasure. They arrived in Granville at an early hour and repaired to the home of Mr. Powers on Granger street. They found him quietly reading the paper, unaware of the storm so soon to burst upon his home. He soon rallied from the shock, while his amiable wife came to his assistance and both proved themselves to be excellent hosts. The evening was spent in games and social conversation, and Miss Edith Watson, Bessie Campbell and Lena Rugg furnished some excellent music and Mr. Powers favored the crowd with some fine solos, after which elegant and dainty refreshments were served. The party left on the 11-20 car, all having had a splendid time.

Those who participated in the affair were: Misses Gertrude and Edna Alward, Ida German, Lena Rugg, Bessie Lee, Anna Dollison, Rose Nethers, Rose Elchorn, Ana Evans, Bertha and Mary Brunner Wilcox Devine, Zoe Badie, Emma Solinger, Helen Banton, Bessie Campbell, Anna Sorazue Stella Porter, Alva Ryan, Walter Leedale, Ulrich Roeser, Ed Banton, Henry Gerlach, Emmett Parson, Willie Berger, George Whitehead, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Jones and daughters, Miss Lillie and Miss Myrtle; Mr. and Mrs. Will Ackley,

This attractive gown is of fawn colored crepe de chine. The clamy lace, put on in a plain pattern, is outlined with straps of crepe de chine. The straps are not stitched into place, but are caught down blindly and ornamented with French knots. The skirt is footed with a fold of fawn colored panne velvet. The girdle is of panne velvet.

and daughter, Marie; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Powers; Misses Marion Powers, Edith Watson, Anna Vance, Anna Lyons, Audrey Jones, Mr. Knowles and Mrs. Sam Swartz, of Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, of Central, delightfully entertained a few of their friends Thursday evening with music and cards.

Mrs. C. W. Miller entertained a few relatives of the Flory family with a sumptuous dinner Friday noon. The guests were: Mrs. Charles Fuller and Miss Pearl Wheelock, of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Cyrus Wilson, of Clinton, Mo.; Mrs. A. Flory, Miss Nancy Flory, Mr. George Flory and Mr. John Ankle.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c. diff

Monday being the wooden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Bart Fitterer, of South Fourth street, a number of their neighbors and friends planned a surprise for them to celebrate the occasion. At about 8 o'clock the self-invited guests arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fitterer with choice refreshments, which they had provided. It was a successful surprise as Mr. Fitterer had already retired and Mrs. Fitterer was peacefully sitting in a chair in her house dress. Mr. Fitterer was forced to get up and entertain the intruders. As a memento of the wooden wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Fitterer were presented with a handsome rocking chair. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Willis Boggs, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. James Dicks, Mr. and Mrs. John Fitterer, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Steef, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Bart Fitterer, the Misses Fitterer, Tyrer, Jones, Davis and Boggs, and Messrs. Fitterer and Tyrer.

Monday was the birthday of Mrs. Philip Baker, so accordingly about 40 of her friends gave her a surprise party in the evening at her home on Seventh street. The friends came, bearing gifts, and nothing was neglected to make the affair a happy one.

Miss Theresa Weiler entertained a few friends on Thursday evening with a parcel shower in honor of Miss Mary Binder, who is soon to become the bride of Mr. Robert Lytle. A delightful social time was enjoyed, and the presents showered upon Miss Binder were both numerous and useful.

The following young ladies, clerks of the H. H. Griggs company dry goods store, formed a theatre party on Monday evening and attended "The New Partner." Misses Pearl Tawney, Phoebe Elchorn, Annie Early, Zoe Bickle, Lorette McCarthy, Nettie Seymour, Jennie McConnell, Nellie Cox, Minnie Schrock, Katie Burch, Ethel Jamison, Esther Hamilton, Ella Kern, Christina Rauch, Mrs. Elizabeth Kraut and Miss Lizzie Spicer.

The first Ladies' Night at the Masonic Club rooms was Tuesday night, and was both a successful and pleasant affair. There were about fifty ladies present, and on account of the many games provided, there was entertainment for all. Euchre, however, was the favorite game at which Mrs. Frank Felix and Mr. Frank W. Elliott were the prize winners. Refreshments were served.

Charles Shields, Miss Sprague, Miss Spencer and Miss Keeler, who was the guest of honor.

The Investigators' club entertained on Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. B. M. East. This being the first meeting of the year, a few remarks were made by the outgoing president and a greeting given by the incoming president.

Roll call was responded to with quotations from "The Summer Holiday," and the following excellent program given:

"Venice, thou siren of sea cities, wrought

By miracle, built on water, stair o'er stair.

Of sunbeams and cloud shadows, phantom fair.

With naught of earth to mar the sea-born thought.

Thou floating film upon the wonder fraught

Ocean of dreams."

—John Addison Symonds

"By literature I mean those great works that rise above professional or commonplace uses, and take possession of the mind of a whole nation or a whole age."—Dean Stanley.

The Rise of Venice, Miss Thomas.

Byron's Tribute to Venice, Miss Wyeth.

A PIANO TALK

The H. D. Munson Sons Music Co., Established in 1851.

Over Fifty-Two Years of Successful Uninterrupted Musical Marching in Ohio.

Last Year's Business the Largest in the History of This Pioneer House and Even Better This Year.

Few firms can lay claim to such a record as history reveals of the well known Munson Music house to be. In 1851 they began, and have steadily advanced, enlarging and extending until now no more widely known musical firm nor more that stands higher in the eyes of the people can be found in this section of the State. In looking over the books of the company it is found that last year they did a larger business than ever before in the history of the house. So far this year everything points to a big increase over that most pleasing record. Now what do such statements indicate? Several inferences may be drawn.

First. They have the confidence of the musical public won by strictly honest dealings and the absence of all misrepresentation.

Second. Their policy has always been to sell none but the best grade of goods and to class the different makes exactly where they belong. They call a $150 piano a $150 instrument, and nothing more.

Third. They buy in large lots for spot cash, direct from the manufacturers and are thus enabled to offer legitimate inducements in price and terms, that cannot fail to convince the careful buyer that they are in a position to give the very best values. Now they can furnish you with a piano as low as $150. Of course this will not buy the best piano, but they can furnish an instrument at that price that will give the buyer the best value for his money, and the best possible service on his expenditure. For $200 they can furnish a piano that is well made in every way. The case is handsome, the tone of the piano is full and sweet, and it is such a substantial musical instrument as has made many friends and no enemies for the Munson Music house. Back of it they place their full guarantee and then for $200, $300, $350, $400 and $150 come instruments of world wide reputation, such as only to name is to fully satisfy purchases of their worth and value, as the Knabe, Behr Bros., Vose & Son, Shoninger, Sterling, Regent, Bailey, Kingsbury and others. Also the celebrated Estey and Needham organs. With such a selection of pianos and organs, such values and their years and years of honest dealings, is it any wonder that the people place absolute confidence and trust in the Munson Music company, and to even think of buying a piano means another sale for Munsons?

Certain it is that their increasing trade bears witness to the absolute satisfaction they afford. When people want good pianos as low as they can be bought they always go to Munson's, No. 27 West Main street.

A GROSS MISREPRESENTATION.

Being a citizen of Newark and also a drayman, I personally did the work for A. B. Smith last year, and as I have an interest in the city's welfare, I feel it my duty to say to her people that this man misrepresents when he says that he sold 15 pianos here last year and that he did not take any back, and also that it took three draymen to do the work. I simply want you to know that he did ship fifteen pianos in for his special sale last year, but when it was over I shipped four of these to another town and since that time up to a month or so ago, I have taken up four of these pianos and returned them to him. Seeing his advertisement and knowing the facts in the case, I could not help thinking that if a man would misrepresent so grossly in these matters, how could people take his word on an article that costs as much as a piano? I have no desire to injure Mr. Smith, but I feel that the public ought to know the facts—then they can judge for themselves.

LAST CHANCE TO REGISTER TO-NIGHT FROM 4 TO 9.

Democratic voters should not countenance any proposition from Republicans to trade votes on any portion of the county ticket. Republicans in Licking county have nothing to lose, but everything to gain by such methods, and Democrats always get cheated. Every Democrat should vote his ticket straight and reject all Republican schemes for trading with scorn.

OUR COUNTY TICKET STANDS ON ITS OWN RECORD.

Our Republican friends are using all sorts of efforts to defeat the present candidates on the Democratic county ticket. In this vain effort Republicans make all sorts of insinuations about what the alleged Democratic officials have done or have not done in the past. The Democratic candidates who are running on the ticket today are not to be blamed for what Republicans allege some other official may have done or may not have done. Let each man on the Democratic ticket today stand on his own character and his own record. All of our present candidates, with the exception of Mr. Fulton, candidate for county treasurer, are new men, who have not held office before. Mr. Fulton is perfectly willing to stand on his own record, which is unassailable, and the new candidates on the ticket ask only justice that they be given chance to stand on their own character and the personal record they may each make in the future.

The refusal of Hanna and Herrick to meet their Democratic opponents and discuss the questions that are before the people for their judgment is easily explained. They did not dare to state their own positions on these questions, as they would have been compelled to on the platform. Consequently they preferred to speak under such conditions as would enable them to dodge the issues and misrepresent their political opponents.

No better ticket was ever presented to the voters of Licking county than the Democratic ticket. It is composed of good men in every respect. Work for it and vote it at the election.

Senator Hanna believes that "business methods" buying and selling, should be used in politics. What do honest men believe?

J. H. Clarke in the senate would reflect a much-needed honor on the great state of Ohio.

LABOR RECORD OF THE SENATORIAL CANDIDATES IN THIS DISTRICT.

The record of the two candidates in this senatorial district on the labor question is a matter of the greatest consequence to the workingmen of our city. For the ten years that Mr. Gwynne, of Delaware, the Democratic candidate, has been an employer of labor he has not been a candidate for office, and in no sense has he been a politician. His record shows that he has been the friend of labor in the largest and broadest sense. He not only paid his own employees increased wages, but his action made a standard of wages that other employers in that city were compelled to pay, and the result was a general benefit to all the workingmen of Delaware.

The very opposite is the record of the Republican candidate for senator, Mr. Overturn. The latter's record as a city councilman in Delaware shows that he invariably voted against paying workingmen and laborers for the city such wages as has always been paid by Newark and other Ohio cities.

Every laboring man in Newark should acquaint himself with these facts and vote accordingly.

NEWARK SHOULD HAVE A COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

Citizens of Newark are interested in the election of a county commissioner this year who lives in the city. There are already two members of the board who live in the country and the Republicans are running another candidate who lives in the country, so that, should he be elected, the city of Newark would have no representation on the board. This would mean a serious detriment to the city's interests. The city pays its full share for the county taxes and is entitled to an equal share in the expenditure of the bridge and county funds. Everybody knows that this will be best promoted by having a member of the board of commissioners who lives in the city, who knows the city's needs and the interests of both its taxpayers and its workingmen. The Democratic candidate, Mr. Frank Showman, is such a man and deserves to be elected by an overwhelming majority. Mr. Showman is not seeking to get votes by any of the vote trading schemes that Republican politicians undertake to work, but the citizen of Newark, be he a business man or a workingman, will best promote his own and the city's interest generally by voting for Mr. Frank Showman for commissioner. He is honest, capable, a man of the people, and will make a popular officer.

A VOTE FOR DR. WATKINS IS A VOTE FOR MARK HANNA.

Dr. Watkins, the Republican candidate for the Legislature in this county, is making many appeals to his personal friends in the Democratic party to compliment him with a vote for Representative. We hope no consistent Democrat will be misled by any such specious plea as Dr. Watkins and his friends are thus making. If it was a non-partisan office that the doctor was running for, it might possibly be different to see why any consistent Democrat who believes in the principles of his party should scratch a Democrat off his ticket like W. D. Benner, to vote for such an extreme partisan as Dr. Watkins is known to be. But the main point is that a vote for Dr. Watkins is a vote for Mark Hanna, and for all the iniquities that Mark Hanna represents. It is for this reason that Dr. Watkins and his Republican friends are so insistent upon asking Democrats to scratch the Democratic candidate off the ticket and to vote for the Republican candidate for Representative. Personally, it might be a loss to Dr. Watkins to be elected Representative with his large medical practice. But every effort is being made by the Republican bosses this fall to re-elect Mark Hanna, and we repeat, that a vote for the Republican candidate for Representative in this county is simply a vote for Mark Hanna—for the infamous ship subsidy bill—for trusts and monopolies—including the coal monopoly that nearly froze the people to death last winter; and it would also be a vote for imperialism that is trampling the American flag under foot in the Philippine Islands. Does any true Democrat want to vote for these infamies? The only way to avoid doing so is to vote for W. D. Benner and E. F. Gwynne and the straight Democratic ticket.

Register tonight; your last chance.

HOW HANNA ANSWERED QUESTIONS.

At the Youngstown meeting on the other night Hanna announced that he was going to spring a sensation.

There was a lot of interest in the matter and those at the meeting were all expectancy in regard to what was coming.

At the proper moment the senator produced a slip of paper which he declared contained a list of questions which had been prepared by the Democrats to fire at him. He declared that he was going to read the questions and answer them. We submit his answers and ask the reader what he thinks of both questions and answers.

"Isn't Congressman Burton a Republican and isn't his opposition to ship subsidy sincere? Would you debate the question of ship subsidy with him during the present campaign?" was the first question read by Mr. Hanna, but not answered.

This certainly is a pertinent question and is worthy of an answer. Why did Hanna not answer it? He really did not dare to answer it. Burton is certainly a good Republican and the fact that he is opposed to the ship subsidy steal is well known and reflects credit on his good judgment and statesmanship. Hanna stands for that steal. He defends it and declares that if he is returned to the senate he will work for its passage.

Listen to the next question and Hanna's answer:

"How about the giving of federal jobs to at least fifteen members of the legislature who voted for you for United States senator in 1898?" "That isn't true. I gave out many more jobs than that, because I never forget my friends," replied Mr. Hanna.

Who were Hanna's "friends?" Why, the crooks who were elected to the legislature on the pledge to vote against him and who sold out for money and a federal job. In addition to these "legislative friends" were men like Rathbone, who assisted in the "buying" and who were given big jobs where they could steal.

Here is another question of great interest. Note Hanna's answer:

"What about the amount of your Neil House bar bill in 1898?" "Well, now that is a poser," commented Hanna. "My friends, I really don't know the amount, for I did not pay the bill."

Whoever insinuated that Hanna personally paid that bill? Dick was the Man Friday who did the check drawing. The amount of that bill has been often stated and has never been disputed and probably never will be. That bill amounted to $7,500 and was duly paid.

What is to be thought of a senator of the United States who says that he is too good to associate with John H. Clarke? Who admits that there was a big bar bill made in electing him to his high office and then dodges a direct question in regard to it by saying that he did not pay it himself?

Any man who permitted a bill like this to be made in his behalf is not fit to sit in the senate to represent the great state of Ohio; and any man of fine sensibility who has to meet a charge of this sort would either deny it with indignation or resign.

These were the questions which Hanna read himself and the answers, which he made were taken down verbatim. Nothing which has occurred in the campaign thus far is so significant as this incident.

LAST DAY

REGISTRARS IN SESSION TILL 9 O'CLOCK TONIGHT.

If You Are Not Registered in Precinct in Which You Live Attend to It Tonight.

Today is the last registration day before the election of November 3. Newark voters whose names are not on the registration books in the precinct in which they live must register this evening before 9 o'clock or they can not vote November 3.

Clerk A. C. Hatch of the City Board of Elections reports that on Friday, the third registration day, about 300 names were put on the books, leaving according to reports from the two political parties, about 500 men to be registered today.

The last registration day is always the busiest and as there is a general hustle all along the line it is believed that the great majority of those not registered will attend to that important matter today. The registrars will be in session this evening from 4 to 9 o'clock. If you are not registered, attend to it this evening, as this is your last chance.

Last year there were about 5,300 registered voters in Newark. Next fall every Newark voter must register anew as there is a general registration here every four years.

CHANCE TO INVEST

Have you a little money, $100, $200 or $1,000, that is idle or that is drawing 3 to 4 per cent in one of the building associations? Would you be interested in a proposition that would make this money bring you 6 per cent and FREE FROM TAXES? Money on deposit in the banks and buildings associations is taxable, but PREFERRED 6 PER CENT STOCK in the Newark Telephone Company is non-taxable.

This company has in the past year spent over $60,000 in enlarging and improving its plant. The number of telephones in service has almost doubled and daily additions are being made. To carry on this work as outlined will require about $15,000 more money and preferred 6 per cent stock is being sold. The men prominently identified with this company have bought some of this stock, men who know that the investment is sound and returns sure. They know that the distribution of stock is a good thing for the company and have decided to place $15,000 of this preferred stock in small amounts among the people of Licking county.

Don't invest your money in untried ventures or in institutions about which you know nothing. Call on Manager Hollander and have him explain to you what is being done and what has been accomplished. This is worth looking into. The stock will be quickly disposed of.

RACE MEET ENDS

In Spite of the Cold Raw Afternoon a Good Sized Crowd Saw the Closing Races at Idlewild Park Friday.

The last day's racing under the auspices of the Newark Driving Park association was held Friday and the crowd was good considering the weather, which was cold and raw.

Two races were decided, the 2:27 pace, in which Lucky Jim, who was installed favorite, was beaten by Lady Elect, whose driver seemed to do his best to lose the race, and was cautioned by the judges. It took six heats to decide the event.

Redwood, the favorite, won the 2:18 trot in easy style in straight heats, and Strathline was so much better than all the others in the free-for-all pace that after winning two heats and it had become dark, it was agreed to divide the money according to the way they finished in the two heats that were decided.

The meeting has been a success and every one has had a good word to say for the work of Starter O. S. Lehman, of Dayton. The summary:

2:27 pace, 3 in 5, purse $250:
Lady Elect (Rubel) 1 2 3 1 1
Lucky Jim (Furbush) 1 1 2 2 4
Fred Stockman (Kurg) 3 2 3 1 2
Harry (Street) 4 4 4 4 3
Time, 2:24 1-4, 2:21 1-2, 2:21 1-4, 2:25 1-2, 2:25, 2:30.

2:18 trot, 3 in 5, purse $300:
Redwood (Burns) 1 1 1
Dertina (Jamison) 2 2 2
Wheaton Boy (Patterson) 3 3 4
Honeymoon (Phillips) 5 4 3
Interurban (Van Atta) 4 5 5
Time, 2:18 1-4, 2:18 1-4, 2:18 1-4.

Free-for-all pace, purse $300:
Strathline (Burns) 1 1
Master Ray (Peters) 2 3
Col Strathmore (Dale) 3 2
George Burns (Jones) 4 4
John R Gentry Jr (Johnson) 5 5
Time, 2:14 1-4, 2:16 1-2.

the standing room was occupied and at least a hundred people were turned away for want of room—all of which speaks volumes for Prof. Beardsley's course of splendid educational lectures. The people are enthused about what they hear and see.

Beardsley's first illustrated lecture in this city will be given at Taylor hall, Y. M. C. A. building, next Monday evening, October 26. Doors open at 7:15, begins at 8 sharp, standard time. There will be no admission fee charged for adults Monday night. A collection at the close.

ALICE M. WILLIAMS GRANTED A DIVORCE

Verdict for Mr. Pickett Returned by Common Pleas Jury—Real Estate Transfers—Court Notes.

In Common Pleas Court the following business was transacted:
Alice M. Williams v. Horace Williams, decree of divorce to plaintiff, Tanner, Columbus. The plaintiff was a dressmaker at Pataskala. The grounds upon which the decree was allowed was willful absence and drunkenness.

Emma G. Vanatta v. Charles M. Vanatta et al., defendant N. & G. Ry. Co. ordered to pay to plaintiff or clerk of court, for use of plaintiff, the money due the defendant, Vanatta. Notice of appeal given by defendant, Vanatta, and bond for appeal fixed at $50. Flory & Flory, James.

Court adjourned to Monday morning. In the case of G. S. Pickett v. A. S. Howell, a verdict was returned for plaintiff for $70.39. Plaintiff sued to recover the purchase price of a lot of fruit trees sold by plaintiff to defendant. The defendant has filed a motion for a new trial, alleging that several errors are in the record on the trial of the case, and the case will likely be taken to the Circuit Court for review. ## LODGE NEWS

Masonic Meeting.

One of the largest and most successful Masonic meetings ever held in this city was the special meeting of Newark lodge, No. 97, on Friday evening. The meeting was held for the purpose of exemplifying the degrees of the Blue lodge and the officers of all the various lodges in the county were invited as guests to witness the work. The work began promptly at 6:30 and was conducted by A. A. Stasel, Worshipful Master of Newark lodge, assisted by the masters of other lodges and Newark's special team. The spacious lodge room was crowded to its utmost capacity with visitors, representing the various lodges of the county, in addition to the large representation from Newark and Acme lodges.

The work was conferred on one candidate in each of the three degrees and was most admirably performed. The team of old 97, as reorganized, is doing specially good work. Mr. Stasel, Worshipful Master of Newark lodge, is noted for the superior manner in which he confers the degrees, and he was ably assisted by the officers and members of Newark and Acme lodges, together with Brother Wm. Smith, of Granville. Past Master of Helron lodge.

The venerable Charles B. Giffin of Granville, who has just celebrated his 80th birthday anniversary, and Samuel Everett, who is 79 years old, were among the honored and welcome visitors of the evening, as was also Mr. Alfred Stevens, now of Baltimore, Md., but formerly Master of Newark lodge, who is visiting his old home in Newark. Among the visiting Masters of lodges who were present were Messrs. George D. Orr, Brownsville; Edward Hoskinson, Farmers' lodge; I. H. De Bow, B. I. Jones and others. At the conclusion of the work, which was excellently done, and elicited the highest praise from all present, an elegant banquet was served in the handsome new club room on the second floor of Masonic Temple. Although the crowd was large, there was room for all around the well spread tables. A. A. Stasel, Master of Newark lodge, presided gracefully as toastmaster, and brief and appropriate remarks were made by Judge S. M. Hunter and Col. Isaac DeBow, the Mark Twain of Granville. The evening was a delightful one.

Modern Woodmen of America.

The 75 members of Cedar Camp, present at the meeting on Wednesday night, October 21, pronounced it one of the best meetings ever held by this camp. Three applications were ballotted on, and accepted, and Edward Street and R. W. Wallace were led through the mysteries of the forest. The various relief committees reported all sick neighbors on the road to recovery. A vote of sympathy was extended Neighbor H. C. Warman on the death of his mother. Neighbor T. W. Tabler was unable to be present on account of a severe case of ivy poison, but with this exception all officers were present. The claim of Hattie L. McVicker of Hanover for $2,000 against the society on account of the death of her husband, Neighbor W. W. McVicker, who died October 2, has been paid by Clerk E. W. Murphy of Cedar Camp. Mrs. McVicker desires to thank the order and especially the officers and members of Cedar Camp for the kind and prompt attention accorded her in her bereavement.

Odd Fellows.

At the meeting of Newark lodge, No. 523, I. O. O. F. held on Monday evening, the initiatory degree was conferred on one candidate, in addition to the regular routine business.

The regular meeting of Olive Branch of Odd Fellows was held on Tuesday night with a good attendance. The first degree was conferred on two candidates and at the meeting to be held on next Tuesday evening the third degree will be conferred on one candidate.

One application for membership was received at the meeting of Olive Branch lodge on Tuesday evening.

There was a good meeting of the members of the Licking lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, held on Thursday night, and fourteen candidates for membership were initiated into the mysteries of the lodge. Six petitions for membership were received.

American Protective Union.

Newark Council No. 1, held their meeting last Monday evening at the A. P. U. hall, Opera House block, for the first time with a large number of members present. After the meeting closed members were invited by the supreme officers to the banquet hall where refreshments were served which were greatly enjoyed by all. A special meeting was held on Friday evening to prepare a program for the memorial service to be held on Sunday evening at A. P. U. hall, at 8:30 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend this service. The program follows:

Funeral March, Chopin. Mrs. Beatrice Davis.
Invocation, Rev. Lester S. Boyce.
Hymn.
Order of Service, the Council, the President presiding.
"Immortality," solo, Miss Bertha W. Penney.

Address, the Rev. J. C. Schindler.
"Resurrection's Blessed Hope," solo by Captain F. C. Warden.
The Lord's Prayer, Chant.
"Why Shouldst Thou Fear the Beautiful Angel of Death?" trio, the Misses Penney and Hirschberg, Mrs. Fitzgerald.

Benediction, Rev. Lester S. Boyce.
Mrs. Beatrice Davis, pianist.

PROGRAM

To Be Rendered Sunday Afternoon at Taylor Hall—The Address Will Follow.

The following program will be rendered at the sacred concert in Taylor hall tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 5:30 by the Denison mixed quartet: Miss Lista Geil, soprano; Miss Elsie Hirschberg, contralto; Mr. Thomas Phillips, tenor; Mr. Charles Matthews, basso, Miss Jennie E. Blinn, accompanist:
To Deum in E flat, Dudley Buck.
Heaven is My Home, Hanscom.
Blessed Redeemer, Dana, Miss Geil.
Nearer, My God, to Thee, Lynes.
The Lord My Pasture Shall Prepare, arranged from an offertory by Baptiste.
Regarding Professor Beardsley, who will deliver the address Sunday afternoon, the following from Mr. H. E. Owen, who has recently been elected general secretary of the Columbus Y. M. C. A., is most complimentary:

"I am performing a duty which I believe I owe to the association when I speak in unqualified terms of the excellency of the addresses which Dr. B. F. Beardsley, of Hartford, Conn., gave at our men's meetings on the afternoons of Sunday, December 3 and 10. His theme was 'Social Purity.' Both the argument and the application was clean and chaste, and the effect most helpful. I had the pleasure, also, of listening to several lectures delivered by the doctor in our auditorium to general audiences. They were thoroughly scientific and were very heartily commended by several local physicians who heard them. Dr. Beardsley is a Christian gentleman and is entirely worthy of the confidence of association people."

The lecture is free to men and all men are invited.
Arrangements have been made to have Dr. Beardsley give the boys a talk at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. All boys under 16 should come at this hour promptly at 2 o'clock.

MEETINGS

At First Presbyterian Church Are Growing in Interest and in Attendance.

The meetings at the First Presbyterian church under the direction of Dr. A. H. Kaylor and Miss Robinson continue to grow in interest and attendance. Friday evening Mr. Kaylor spoke from the words in Proverbs, first chapter 24th verse, taking as his theme, "God's Calls." Miss Robinson sang with telling effect "Not Saved." The speaker said in part that God uses agencies in calling men unto himself: first and foremost, by the Holy Spirit as He moves upon the hearts and consciences; second by the consecrated ministry of the church. God uses something as insignificant as a preacher in calling men to God through Christ; third, by his providence. Providence means going before. I do not believe that every time a dear little child dies God takes that little one for some purpose. It may be that in the death of that little one the physician was at fault. The blame may be upon the nursing. But I believe this: that sometimes God lays the little one, as sweet and beautiful as though it were cut of the whitest marble, cold and silent, that while an ungodly father's heart is breaking, he can the better hear God calling him. The man who perishes from in front of the pulpit perishes dreadfully, perishes justly, because God has called and he has refused.

Dr. Kaylor is the prince of logicians, a clear reasoner and a deep thinker. He eliminates all that is objectionable in gospel work. His appeals are directed to the mind and are not an attempt to play upon the emotional nature.

Dr. Kaylor and Miss Robinson will conduct tomorrow's services and will be at the First church every evening next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lytle, of Marquette, Mich., will spend Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Jones, at their home on Hudson avenue.

ENTERTAINMENT

COURSE OF THE NEWARK Y. M. C. A. BEGINS DEC. 3

Tickets on Sale Oct. 26—Only 400 Seats to be Sold—List of the Attractions.

Encouraged by the splendid patronage of last year's course, the Y. M. C. A. entertainment committee has ventured to enlarge the list of attractions this year, and to engage only the very best talent. The course will include eight numbers, three concerts, three lectures and two entertainers—every one of which was selected for its special excellence.

Another feature of this year's course which will no doubt be greatly appreciated is that all the numbers come on the first and third Thursdays of the month, beginning with a grand opening concert, Thursday, December 3, by the Bostonia Ladies' orchestra.

The following is the list of the talent with dates:

December 3—Bostonia Ladies' orchestra.

December 17—Albert Armstrong (Picture Play).

January 7—Anderson-Reehr Concert company.

January 21—Dr. Thomas E. Green (lecture).

February 4—Lorado Taft (sculptor).

February 18—Nellie Peck Saunders' Concert company.

March 3—Montville Flowers (impersonator).

March 17—Ralph Parlette (humorist).

The plan of permanent reserved seats, which has given such general satisfaction the past two seasons, has again been adopted for this year's course.

Course tickets will be put on sale next Monday, October 26, at the Y. M. C. A. office. These tickets are then to be exchanged for the permanent reserved seats, Thursday, November 26, at 6 o'clock.

The prices for the different parts of the house are as follows:

Downtown and first two rows in the balcony, $2.50.

Same to members, $2.00.

Balcony back of first two rows, $2.00.

Same to members, $1.50.

Single admissions, 50 cents.

With eight such excellent entertainments (two more than ever given before), these prices are indeed very reasonable.

Only 400 seats will be sold this year. Judging from last year's sale, these will go very rapidly, so that few, if any, will be left by the time the permanent seats are to be assigned.

FIFTY YEARS OF SUCCESS

Fifty years ago an eminent specialist prescribed Father John's Medicine for the late Rev. Father John O'Brien, of Lowell, Mass., by whom it was recommended and from whom it derived its name. It is not a patent medicine and is free from opium, morphine or poisonous drugs or weakening stimulants in any form such as the majority of patent preparations depend upon for their temporary effect, and which are dangerous—you are warned against them. It makes flesh and strength and builds up the body. Prevents pneumonia and consumption. Cures bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed.

Father John's Medicine is sold in Newark at Collins' Drug Store, North Third street.

PASTOR PARKHURST

Expresses His Views On Dowie and His Meetings

"Elijah" Disgusting and the Pretense to Healing Grotesque

The Zion City "Prophet" Declared By Parkhurst to Be Too Wilfully Conscious and Coarse Grained—Dr. Parkhurst Confesses Disappointment.

New York, Oct. 24.—The Rev. Chas. H. Parkhurst, D.D., pastor of Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, was asked yesterday for his impressions of Dowie, leader of the Zion restoration host that is making a failure of its New York visit. Dr. Parkhurst said:

You ask me to state my impressions of Dowie and his service in Madison Square. I have tried and with fair success, I believe, to divest myself of prejudice; have gone even further than that and as far as possible have made use of the principle stated by Carlyle in his "Essay on Voltaire," that "no character is rightly understood until it has first been regarded with a certain feeling not of tolerance only, but of sympathy."

Dowie is presumably like other people in this respect, that he is neither unmixedly good nor unmixedly bad. The easiest question to ask and the most difficult to answer is whether he is a hypocrite. This Elijah business of his is confessedly a good deal of a strain on credulity. Probably he did not believe in it himself when he started out, but in trying to convince others of it he has persuaded himself and in this way hammered down his hypocrisy into sincerity. That is not difficult. Indeed it is very easy with a man of his peculiar psychological outfit.

Dowie is good perhaps, but at any rate he is clever and has a phenomenal faculty for converting cleverness into dollars. This is not alleged criticism. Cleverness is good, and dollars are good, and we all wish we had more genius for converting the one into the other, and if it is wrong for a preacher to have a bank account it is wrong for a layman. There is only one genuine standard of righteousness. It is not claimed that Dowie has made his money fraudulently nor that he is using it dishonestly. His people come closer to him in these matters than we do, and they appear to respect him and indeed to love him. Another accusation urged against him is that he drives a fine team. Pastors, rectors and even bishops are sometimes liable to the same imputation. The original Elijah rode in a chariot, so Scripture tells us, drawn by a span by the side of which Dowie's steeds are not even a circumstance.

Dowie has founded a city which in point of orderliness and decency casts New York entirely in the shade. The laws are observed there better than they are here. The saloon question in Zion City is dealt with frankly and unequivocally. Zion City's new court closes with the doxology. Perhaps that is rather extreme, but there would be no harm in submitting the point to the attention of our local judges and justices and if prudent to the public prosecutor of the county. There is certainly administrative and executive timber in the man, and we ought to give even the devil his due, although I do not intend this disrespectfully. Were he mayor he would be in constant rows with his heads of departments, for in Zion City he is "the whole thing," the entire bureau, shelves, drawers and till, the very arch-enemy of all bossism.

Dowie's people are fond of him, and he has the appearance of being very thoughtful of them. His thoughtfulness comes out in little, unobtrusive ways that for that very reason denote all the more. A modest example is seen in the fact that he recommended to the people who were to come out here (New York) with him that before leaving Zion City they should deposit in Zion's vaults the valuables, souvenirs, knickknacks, etc., they were leaving behind at the rate of $3. But even Zionist boldness has certain current expenses that have to be met, and every poultryman who devotes himself to feeding his birds expects to get some of it back in feathers.

Like this is what some one has written about Dowie's sanitarium business and by one who stands quite generously affected toward him: "He began it in 1893, when he opened a 'divine healing home,' which was simply a boarding house with a lot of prayer. Every morning he gathered the inmates, preached to them, prayed with them and laid hands on them, and every week Mrs. Dowie collected the board money—nothing extra for the prayer." The only adverse thing to be said about the performance is that it holds the piety and the slickels in so close juxtaposition that it leaves a funny impression, and yet that perhaps is not very different from the familiar fact that other pastors preach so many sermons in the year and pray so many prayers in the year and get so much good pro quo at the end of the year or quarterly.

The pretense that Dowie makes to supernatural healing is of course a grotesque and silly feature of his system. The court of appeals, I see it stated, has just handed down a decision condemning a Dowieite for permitting his child to die for lack of qualified medical attendance. The courts in our country do not like to interfere with people's liberty, but crankiness has to have a guardian put over it, whether this crankiness shows itself in the form of lunacy, criminality or religious obliquity. I have always been a disbeliever in what is advertised as religious healing. Dowie either knows better and is a hypocrite or he doesn't know better and thinks with a brogue.

There is nothing to be said against Dowie's doctrinal orthodoxy, provided he believes what he says he believes and presumably does. He is not a stiff Calvinist, and perhaps this is to his advantage, but he squares with the Presbyterian faith in the matter of the infallibility of the Scriptures and their sufficiency as a rule of faith and practice. He claims that no one ought to be admitted to church fellowship who has not repented of his sins and trusted in Christ for salvation. And he furthermore insists that in order to be admitted into the visible church one should in a measure have the virtue of the Holy Spirit. All other matters, he declares, are to be relegated to the category of the nonessential. Now, this is a fine creed. It is fine in what it includes and fine in what it does not include.

Assuming for convenience sake the sincerity of the man, it is to his misfortune that he links himself in any way with Elijah. In the first place, Elijah, even the original Elijah, is not what we want, and still less do we want a counterfeit copy of him. Elijah is a back number. John the Baptist came in the power of Elijah, and the Lord himself said that the poorest servant in the kingdom of heaven was ahead of John the Baptist. The rehabilitation of antiquities is not the thing required.

In the second place, Dowie is so evidently tremendously human that the masses are not going to take kindly to his claim of being a whit above human. Granted that he has chastened himself into believing that he is the fourth member of the Trinity, the people at large are going to interpret that as being so much sanctimoniousness, not to say sacrilegious buncombe.

He will not capture the people. He is no more like Moody or Spurgeon or Wesley than a kettledrum is like a canary. The people who throng, so long as they continue to throng, Madison Square Garden will be of two classes. The larger class will be of those who attend in the same way and in the same spirit that they would come into the Garden if Dowie were off and a circus were on. Dowie and his troupe are to them nothing more or less than a cage of imported curiosities.

The other class is made up of those who are suffering from a twist in their psychology and who want a Christianity with a corresponding twist to match it, and the people who trail after Dowie are of the same general breed.

GETS TAX BILL MAN GOES INSANE

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 24.—Declaring that taxes were an abomination and that he would go to the mountains to live, Randolph Hoagland suddenly became violently insane on receiving his tax bill for the year.

He rushed from his home and disappeared, when finally Patrolman Saffron discovered him roaming about the streets. He was examined by physicians who declared his mind was a blank and that he would probably never regain his reason.

JOS. MORRIS' MARION HOME AND THE UNDERGROUND ROAD

4—Jos. Morris.

Marion, O., Oct. 24.—For a number of years before the war possibly no Ohio home was so well known in the south as a two story frame farmhouse on the Canaan pike in Richland township, about nine miles southeast of this city. Occupied by Quaker Jos. Morris and his family, it was the most important station on the underground railroad across the state from the Ohio to the lake. It proved a haven to hundreds of negro slaves being "railroaded" out of the south into Canada, and not one was ever captured inside its walls.

How slave holders could trace their slaves to the Morris home and there lose all trace of them was a mystery for decades. All sorts of theories were advanced, but the right one was never discovered until recently. Mr. Morris lived to be over 95, and up to the time of his death in 1899, lived in the old house.

Recently, when the property passed into the hands of Chas. Swartz, stories of mysterious chambers and tunnels were heard, and Sunday, for the first time, a newspaper man was permitted to examine the house and the grounds. The old home is no different from the ordinary run of houses of its time on the first and second floors; but the low attic and the cellar reveal systems of false partitions and secret chambers by which the fugitives were concealed in safety.

The garret is simply a labyrinth. The main room plainly shows two false partitions, one on either side, forming two rooms more. But beyond and around these are more, all so carefully constructed as to deceive, as they did deceive, in ante-bellum times. The cellar also has secret chambers. There are two of them, each capable of forming a safe hiding place for a dozen refugees. Their walls are made of cement to correspond with the other walls. In the days of the "underground" railroad these chambers were concealed by two big cupboards fixed to the cement doors which divided them from the main cellar. But this is not all. Out of the cellar two tunnels lead. One runs to the site of an old barn, the other to the old corner.

These passages were concealed in the same manner as the secret chambers and afforded a means of escape from the home when surrounded by slave holders, in several cases negroes escaping from the home in safety and proceeding on their flight while their owners camped about the home.

The scene showing the signboard, which was known half way to the gulf, and the side view of the home were taken last Sunday. The scenes showing the Quaker gathering in front of the home and the likeness of Mr. Morris were taken upon the occasion of his 95th birthday, June 23, 1899.

That the community in which the old house stands is a Quaker settlement, which in a great measure, accounts for the safekeeping of its secrets, was evidenced when an old farmer neighbor came along and asked the photographer:

"Are thee going to fire thy machine upon the sabbath day?"

Joe Morris was known throughout the land for his integrity, his charities and his good deeds, and during his lifetime tributes of appreciation came to him from every quarter of the country, from the occupants of the humblest negro cabin to presidents in the white house—Grant and Harrison. A Quaker, living in the strict tenets of that faith, he was a home missionary in every sense of the word.

He aided escaping negroes before the war. He followed the Union army through the Virginia campaigns, giving such assistance as was in his power to the wounded and distressed. He went to Chicago during the great fire on mercy bent, and, in one way or another, made his figure a familiar one to the officers and inmates of half the charitable and penal institutions of the land. The story of his good deeds would fill a volume.

The "underground railroad" extended through Chillicothe, the first important station north of that place being at the home of Aaron L. Benedict, in Delaware county, from which place slaves were forwarded to the home of Morris and then north to Sandusky city.

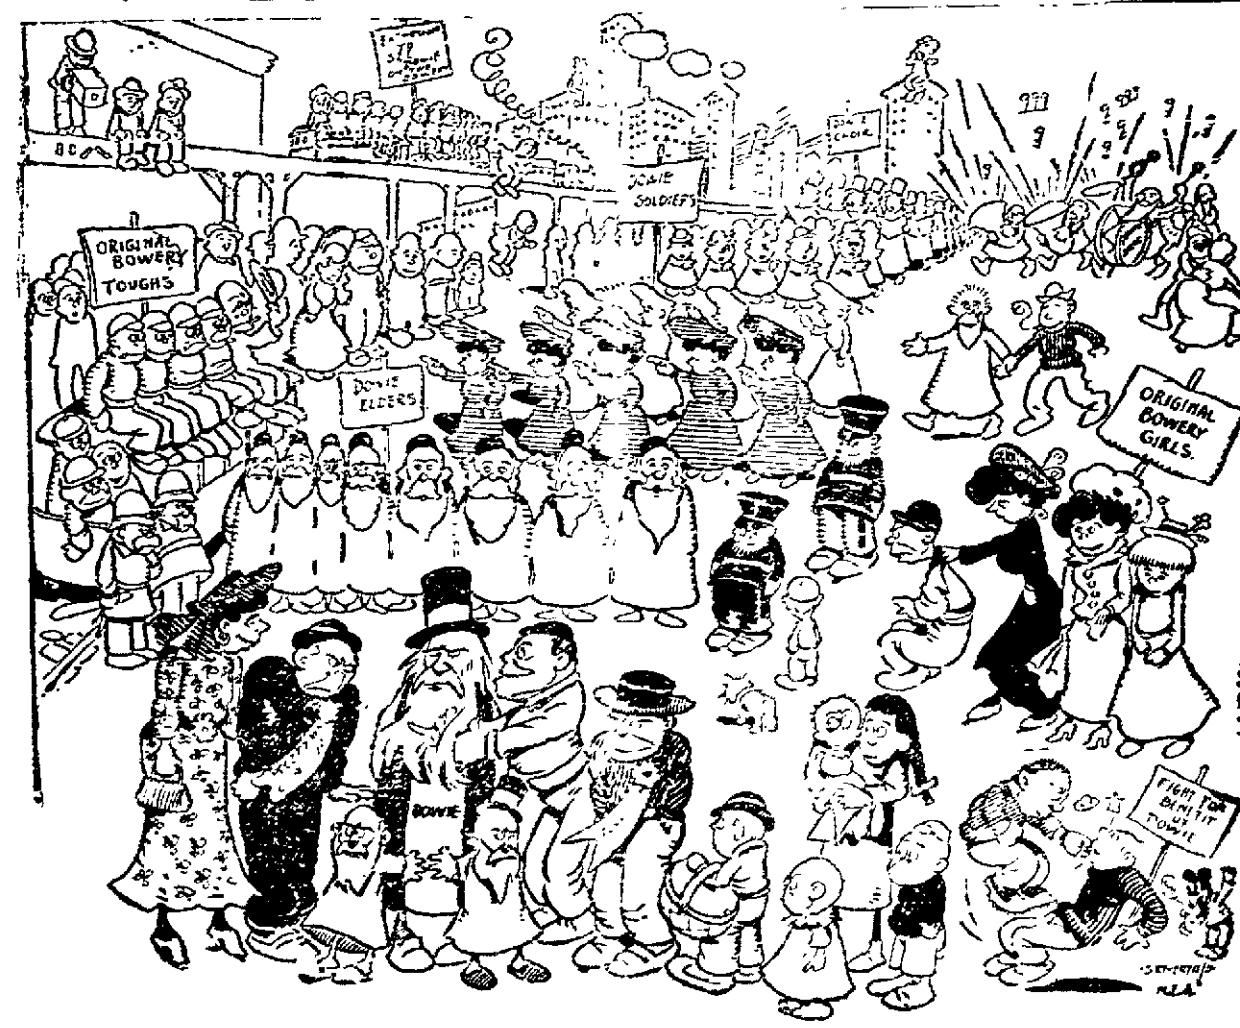

Few of the refugees cared to strike Marion, and the "Old Mud" pike to the east was followed by the wagons employed in what was then forbidden traffic. Both these roads were marked with temporary places of safety, but if pursuit was hard and fast, an effort was made to get the negroes to the Morris home, near which the two roads passed. There they were safe.

Eliza Harris, of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" fame crossed the Ohio at Ripley and was sent north through Indiana by Rankin and Morris, of "underground railroad" fame.

JAPAN VS. RUSSIA

Views of an Authority on the Manchurian Crisis

Russia's Action Deemed a Menace to Civilization

How Japanese Might Win—A Student of Asiatic Questions Think Chances Would Favor Japs If She Could Strike at Once.

Washington, Oct. 24.—A lifelong student of Asiatic questions of Washington, whose position precludes the use of his name, speaks as follows of the present situation between Japan and Russia:

"If Japan could strike her enemy at once I think the chances would be in her favor in a war with Russia. This does not depend upon population or the number of troops on the rolls, but rather upon the size of a well disciplined army that can be put on the scene of hostilities and maintained there. The seat of war between Russia and Japan would necessarily be Manchuria and possibly the boundary between Korea and Manchuria. Russia's supplies would be limited to the carrying capacity of the Siberian railroad after the first few months, during which she might draw something from Manchuria itself. The Japanese overseas craft would be a hundred times as effective conveyance for supplies as the Trans-Siberian railroad. Russia could do nothing by sea if Japan should strike soon, because Japan would blockade the coast and overcome, I believe, the Russian Asiatic squadron before the European fleet could get to its aid. The navies of the two countries do not differ greatly, and while the Russian is slightly the stronger the Japanese excels in discipline and skill.

"The carrying capacity of a railroad is a limited dependence in a great war. We all know what happened at Tampa. They had the best railroad men in the country there and yet found the greatest difficulties in carrying supplies for an army of less than 40,000 men. The Russians could increase their rolling stock of the railroad only from other Russian railroads, because of their peculiar gauge, which does not conform with that of the other railroads of the world. Her distances would be tremendous and the winter a great obstruction, whereas it would make no interference with the Japanese movement of supplies."

"Would not Russia's staying power be much greater than the Japanese? Would she not ultimately overcome and severely punish her little foe?"

"That is a question of strong boxes. When Sevastopol fell Russia did not give up so much because that point had no strategic value as because her strong box was empty. It was the same way after the Balkan war. She had to release her grip on Constantinople, not because she could not stand up against western Europe, but because she did not have the financial resources to bid it defiance."

"What ought the western nations to do in this Manchurian crisis?"

"I think Russia's action is a menace to the whole world and to civilization. It lays upon every nation the necessity of increasing its army and its navy. It threatens to lock up the whole of Manchuria against the trade of the world. Further than that, it is a common saying among strategists that Manchuria is one of the finest bases of operation against China which could be imagined. It cannot be denied that its acquisition is only a step in the course of Russia's ambition, nor is it possible to see any limit in the future to these ambitions until a proconsul of the czar is sitting on the throne of Kuldaihan, as the Chinese emperor of Marco Polo's time was called."

"Why should not England take advantage of Japan's efforts by going into the contest now and settling once for all the question of Asiatic control?"

"England has not yet fully recovered from the South African war and is in no hurry for a new one. Her treaty with Japan would not commit her to join forces against Russia unless Russia should have an ally or unless Russia should menace the independence of Korea, which by a treaty with Japan England is bound to guarantee."

"What ought the United States to do to save Manchuria?"

"The danger is on what it is to be the standard of duty in such matters. A duty to civilization is due from the whole of the civilized world, and what is everybody's business is nobody's business. What Russian conquest means is best to be seen by looking at Finland and Poland and Lithuania. Under the idea of the necessity of defending the whole of the Russian empire homogeneous Russia has crushed out or is endeavoring to crush out all signs of distinct nationality and old tradition and all trace of native language among the Finns and among the German elements of Lithuania. She has compelled them to submit to the drastic conscription from which the treaty of Alexander I. exempted them. She has destroyed most of their local government and has subjected them to the arbitrary control of military rulers. Until very recently I have been a defender of Russia and her most earnest well wisher. With the appointment of Count Lamsdorf as successor of the late Count Muraviev as minister of foreign affairs I cherished the hope that there was some evidence of a peaceful outlook for the indefinite future. I confess that I did not expect this gross repudiation of Russia's promise to evacuate Manchuria. This breach of faith has pained me beyond measure."

CHICAGO MAN IS SHORT A BRIDE

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 24.—A profound sensation was caused in Omaha society circles by the announcement that Miss Hazel Musick was secretly married Thursday night to Asa A. Hunt, while Dr. Fred Farmer of Chicago, to whom she was to be married today, was waiting for her to return to the hotel from a drive.

Miss Musick and Dr. Farmer were chatting in the hotel parlors when the young lady was invited to go for a drive by a lady friend.

She accepted the invitation and an hour later sent her mother a note saying she had just been married to Mr. Hunt.

USES ENGINE TO CATCH ROBBERS

Prairie Duchien, Wis., Oct. 24.—Detective Charles Linder made a most daring capture yesterday when he took three bank robbers, alone and single-handed.

They gave the names of James Murphy, Otto Keller and Ed Raymond.

During the early part of the forenoon they hung about the depot and later walked a mile out of town, where they were overtaken.

The officer unhitched an engine from an incoming freight train and with the engine and conductor ran up to where the men had secreted themselves in the tall grass.

In Raymond's pocket was found newspaper clippings of a postoffice burglary committed in Columbus Grove, O., October 14, and a bank robbery in Berwick, Ill., on October 14.

ILLINOIS HEIRS

Of "Click" Mitchell, Lynched in Urbana. Receive County Damages.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—The proceeds of the first verdict under the new Ohio law which makes a county liable for damages to the estate of a person who is killed by a mob within the county, were distributed yesterday to heirs in Cook county.

The beneficiaries were Mrs. Lillian Brown and Mrs. Daisy Paine, of Chicago, sisters of Charles W. Mitchell, who was lynched at Urbana, Champagne county, O., June 4, 1897. Each secured one-fourth of a verdict of $5,000. The remainder was given two Ohio heirs in the courts of that state.

Attorney Porter, who had been instrumental in securing the passage of the law, began suit in the lower court in Ohio, and was defeated. An appeal was taken to the Supreme court and a retrial resulted in a verdict.

UNION EFFICIENCY.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN ORGANIZED AND UNORGANIZED LABOR.

Attitude of Unions Toward Machinery—The Minimum Scale of Wages. Benefits That Follow Employment of Union Workmen.

A. J. Boulton, a prominent member of New York Stereotypers' union No. 1, was asked several questions relating to organized labor by the Outlook Magazine, to all of which he gave clear and convincing replies. Two of the questions and the answers thereto follow:

"What is the attitude of the union on the use of labor saving machinery?"

"Our union has always favored machinery. We have never tried to obstruct its use in any way. I think the trade union movement is too intelligent to have any other feeling than that opposition to the employment of improved machinery would be an injury to the union. The unions which oppose it sooner or later realize that they have made a mistake.

"Some unions have successfully fought off improved machinery. In the glass trust the company and the employees entered into contracts. They agreed to use certain machinery and made a contract as to the output. The glass trust wanted the plate glass workers to shut down in May instead of June to limit the output. The workers agreed to this, fearing that the employers might introduce new machinery if they didn't. The advantage to the glass trust of limiting production would be so great that they would be willing to let the new machinery go. Of course the men would not be willing to accede to the glass trust's wishes unless the glass trust would give them something in return. The wages average about $4.50 a day.

"I think that the general effect of the trades union movement in this country has been an incentive to the production of improved machinery. High wages always offer an incentive to the introduction of improved machinery. In a part of the country where wages are low an employer would not have this incentive. But where he sees a lot of men working and making $4 a day he thinks, if I make a machine that can take the place of some of those men it will be wanted. If they are getting only $2 a day it is not worth bothering about. The autotype machine, for instance, costs $20,000, so unless it displaced a number of high priced men it would not pay. The higher the wages the greater the incentive for improved machinery. The high priced men are always more intelligent and better able to use high priced machinery.

"Shorter hours, too, have been an advantage to the employer. In shorter hours a man is able to keep his mind alert. The longer he works the greater the danger of accidents. A man becomes stupid and careless and lacks energy after long hours of work.

"Something that the trades union has learned is that improved machinery does not displace the number of men that at first glance it appears to do. I can remember when fifteen years ago the molding machine was introduced into the stereotyping business. It is used on newspapers and magazines for taking an impression from type. The machine does in half a minute what it would take a man three minutes to do. It cheapened the getting out of plates, so that the publishers used more plates. The same thing is true of the autotype machine. If they had made only the same number of plates as before its introduction fewer men would be employed, but as a fact they make more plates. I find very little hostility even outside of our union to improved machinery, partly from the idea that it would be foolish to oppose it and also from the idea that to cheapen production is going to increase production."

"What about the common statement that the unions fix a maximum scale of wages?"

"I do not know of any trades union that imposes a maximum scale. I do not think any trades union would be so foolish. The members do not feel that every one ought to be placed on the same level. They feel their individual worth as much as if they were not members of a union. If we had such a maximum the best men would want to stay out. Our object is always to get the best men into the union. Sometimes we find good men who oppose the union, but when we do we try to secure them, as they strengthen the union. But the man who is not competent we want to leave outside. He is no menace to us on the outside, and if inside he does not give satisfaction. If the employer pays every one the same scale it is his own fault. The union merely fixes the minimum scale, and we are glad to have him pay more.

"One-third of the men in our union were receiving premium wages during the past year because business was brisk, but there never has been a time when a considerable number of them were not receiving premium wages. There were always some experts who received more. Map work is difficult work, and some men are much more apt at it than others. If a firm has a good deal of map work it is anxious to get the very best men. To secure them it must offer premium wages.

"The scale is never raised unless the business warrants it. It is always done through discussion and agreement. We meet the employers and talk over the matter with them. Our scale in book and job offices was raised from $4 to $4.50 last fall. The employers had increased the selling price of the plates, and we thought it no more than fair that if the value of the product had increased the producer was entitled to a share in the increase.

"The premium men go up with the scale. Quite a number of them now are getting premium wages. For example, take —, the foreman of a large shop which sends its molds to twelve different cities. The molds are all made in New York city, mailed to the branch offices, plates cast there and sent out. He is at present receiving $60 a week, over twice the union scale, and there is no jealousy among the members because he gets such high wages. This foreman has the rare knack of handling men to the best advantage, and competition for his services between two large offices sent his wages up from $40 (at which he had worked for years) to $60 a week. This is an individual matter with which the union has nothing to do.

"Another illustration, but this time a body of men: The proof readers on morning newspapers, as a rule, receive premium wages. The Herald pays $33 a week, the Tribune $32, the Journal and Times $30, the World $29, and I don't know a single office that pays as low as the minimum scale set by the union, which is $27. And the office that has its proof reading done best and cheapest is the one that pays the highest wages, because the best and speediest men naturally gravitate there."

A BIG DEMONSTRATION.

How to Get Up a Labor Parade With 150,000 Unionists in Line.

Why not have a monster labor demonstration somewhere? is often suggested. That is the question. Why not? Such a demonstration is easily possible, but there must be, first, concert of action and, secondly, a setting aside of selfishness.

It would be an easy matter if the heads of the various international organizations in the United States would get together and agree to advocate a proposition that would result in the holding of the annual conventions in one city at one time, say the week beginning with Labor day in 1906 or such other year as would be deemed best suited for the occasion.

There are over a hundred international organizations, and, assuming that at least sixty could meet, say in either Chicago, New York, Philadelphia or Cincinnati, accommodations could easily be secured for meeting places at that season of the year, and the delegates in attendance would at once be a large number. Then the subordinate bodies everywhere could arrange excursions to the city selected, and a monster Labor day parade could be held. The number of marching wage earners would marvel the universe. It would be imposing, creditable, glorious. There would easily be 150,000 men in line. It would be an event which would awaken the dullest brain and would attract the attention of the bitterest enemy.

Naturally there would be some expense attached to such a gigantic undertaking, but it seems that the glorious achievement would justify the expenditure.

On such occasion there would be no set or trade. It would be a fraternal gathering for the purpose of meeting in army array, in keeping with the determined effort to maintain organization among wage earners, just as capitalists meet in conclave to maintain their interests.

It is up to the printers to make the first move in this direction.—James Monroe Kreiter in Typographical Journal.

AN AMERICAN PEERESS

She was Jennie, daughter of Leonard Jerome, of New York. She married Lord Randolph Churchill, but gave up her title when, after his death, she married Lieutenant Cornwallis-West.

A GAME OF BLUFF.

Tracy Handyside was bright enough to take an excellent stand in his class at college without any close application to his subjects. He was not only bright, but a favorite. His father was rich and parsimonious. Tracy was poor in his own right and a spendthrift. Threat after threat came from home that if the boy didn't mend his ways by spending less money his college course would come to a premature end from lack of remittances. Tracy took it into his head one afternoon to drive four-in-hand. At his favorite stable he got him up a team in the best of style, and Tracy, having taken on a load of fellows and girls, started at a brisk pace on the main road toward the city. The merriment was at its height when a very unpretentious vehicle was seen approaching drawn by an equally unpretentious horse.

"Great heavens!" exclaimed Tracy.

"I do believe that's my father coming."

"What'll I do?"

"Is his eyesight good?" asked one of the party.

"Not very."

"Then ignore him."

The senior Handyside, seeing a party of young people approaching, drew off to the side of the road and waited for them to pass. Unfortunately at the moment of meeting a teamster must needs get in Tracy's way, so that he was obliged to draw rein. He did not notice his father, although the old man shouted in angered tones:

"Tracy!"

Finally the son turned his eyes in his father's direction.

"What do you mean? Upon my word!"

"You are mistaken in your man, sir, I fancy," said Tracy in feigned surprise.

"Mistaken! You young rascal!"

"Whom do you take me for?"

"Take you for? Why, Tracy Handyside, my son! Do you have the effrontery to—"

"Haven't the honor of his acquaintance. I'm sorry I can't take time to prove your error, sir, but I've a party aboard and got to make a twenty mile tour and get back to dinner."

With this he gave the wheelers the lash, tipped the leaders and left the old gentleman aghast between his son's effrontery and a terror lest his eyesight had gone back on him. Tracy drove out of sight, then called a consultation in which it was suggested that his father would drive to college, learn that his son was not there—possibly that he was driving four-in-hand—and Tracy's position would be something terrible.

"I am sorry to mar the pleasure of our drive," said Tracy, "but father will go right past the stable, where he'll likely stop to ask questions; then to my room. I must coach the stableman and be at my room when the governor calls."

After discussion as to the means of doing this, it was finally determined that Tracy should take one of the leaders and gallop back by a roundabout road and, by a quicker pace, forestall his father. The horse was taken out and dressed of all harness except the bridle. Tracy mounted and was soon tearing back to college. Half an hour later he dashed up to the stable from which he had got his team, coached the proprietors and in a few minutes more was in his room behind a fortification of books.

Meanwhile the elder Handyside drove into the town and, passing a stable, drew rein and called for the owner.

"Did you let a four-in-hand this afternoon?" he asked.

"Yes, sir."

"To whom?"

"Mr. Willard Stokes."

"Are you sure it wasn't Handyside?"

"Handyside? Don't know him."

The old gentleman was not convinced. He had had evidence before that his son's creditors would stand by him to the bitter end, and nothing would satisfy him but to go straight to his son's room. He tried the door and found it locked. After a few vigorous knocks he was about to turn away when he heard a voice inside say:

"Get out! I'm boning for exam."

"Tracy," cried the astonished father.

"Let me in!"

The latch flew back, and Tracy stood at the door and folded his parent in his arms.

"Why, father, what brings you here? Nothing wrong at home, I trust?"

"My boy," gasped the old man, sinking into a chair, "my eyesight is giving way."

"What makes you think so, father?" asked Tracy, with anxiety depicted on every feature.

"Why, coming up the road I met a man driving a four-in-hand whom I would have sworn was you."

"What does he look like, father?"

"Look like? Why, he looks like you."

"Did he have on a cream colored driving coat?"

"Yes, I believe he had."

"Silk hat?"

"Yes."

"High black and red coach with yellow wheels?"

"Why, I suppose so. I didn't notice."

"Don't give yourself any trouble, pop. Your eyes are all right. That's the fellow I've heard so much about lately. He lives over in Kenwood. They call him my double."

"Is his name Stokes?"

"That's the man—Stokes. I wish he'd leave the country. He's a wild fellow, and I'm always getting the credit of his scrapes."

"Tracy, that'll do for Mr. Stokes. I've come over to talk over a family matter with you."

The Westinghouse Strike.

The Westinghouse Machine and Electrical company of Pittsburg refused to pay the scale fixed by the International Association of Machinists, and the machinists went on strike. Efforts to effect a settlement having failed, the machinists' national officers have been making preparations to bring a pressure to bear against the company.

As far as is known all work on the buildings of the St. Louis exposition is being performed by union labor, in accordance with the wishes of President E. R. Francis and other officials of the exposition. Their attention, it is understood, has been brought to the fact that the Westinghouse company, which has a contract with the exposition management, is involved in a controversy with the machinists' association, and it is further understood that they will be asked to use their influence to bring about a settlement. Should this prove futile and the Westinghouse company continue to refuse to accede to the demands of the strikers at Pittsburg it is said to be likely that the machinists employed at the exposition will be called upon to quit work.

No Time For Suicidal Squabbles.

No body of men ever had as rich, as cunning, as powerful or as well organized an enemy to oppose as that which blocks the path of organized labor today. It will take all the men and all the money and all the brains that the labor forces possess to maintain the rights that have been won and to obtain more.

This is no time for squabbles over trade jurisdiction or for wrangles between rival leaders or for concocting wild schemes of political revolution. This is a time to close up ranks, to enlist new members and new trades, to strengthen the weak places, to teach what we know of unionism and learn more.—Herbert N. Casson.

A Gift For the Machinists.

Under the terms of an agreement recently entered into between the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railroad and the International Association of Machinists the members of the latter will receive an increase in pay of 10 per cent. The agreement also regulates the employment of apprentices and gives the workmen time and a half for all overtime and night work and double time for holidays and Sundays.

ESTIMATE OF JAPAN'S ARMY

Russian Writer Says Cavalry Is Weak, but Praises the Infantry.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the London Times synthesizes an article by a correspondent of the Novoe Vremya which sums up the Japanese army. It is said that the weakest point in that organization is the cavalry arm, the development of which has been hindered by the lack of horses and the want of suitable places for exercise. The Russian cavalry is seven times more numerous.

The Japanese infantry is most favorably criticised. Its moral qualities are said to be very high, although its physical qualities are on a much lower level. In warm countries, it is declared, the Japanese infantryman has displayed extraordinary powers of endurance, but he would hardly be likely to show them in a cold climate.

The writer concludes his review with the opinion that it is difficult to form an estimate of an army "which has never stood the test of a serious war."

A Woman Coach For a University.

Women's sports at Northwestern university of Chicago will soon receive an impetus by the acquisition of an athletic coach, says the Indianapolis News. Through the influence of the Woman's Athletic association an appropriation has been secured from the university, and a coach will soon be selected. Basketball is the favorite sport. The new coach will act as physical director and coach of the basketball team. The officers of the Woman's Athletic association are as follows: Miss Emily H. Greenman, president; Miss Fannie Campbell, vice president; Miss Emily Harris, secretary; Miss Ella Trelease, treasurer; Miss Olive Siberts, junior member of the board of control, and Dr. O. F. Long, faculty member of the board of control.

England's New Grape.

A rare and interesting event in viticulture is recorded in a new seedling grape raised by the head gardener to Lord Hastings, says a London cable dispatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean. A cross between the two well known varieties, the Gros Colmar and the Lady Hastings, the new grape is claimed to be superior to either, being more fleshy, larger and a better traveler. Perhaps its greatest advantage, however, is the fact that it attains perfection when the season for other British grapes is ended. The new grape is at its best in the winter months.

Innovation at a Wedding.

Mention was made some time ago of the use of silver paper horseshoes and slippers instead of rice as missiles of luck at fashionable weddings, says a London cable dispatch to the New York Herald. An innovation was made at the marriage of Lady Gwendolin Onslow and Mr. Rupert Guinness a few days ago, when the bride and bridegroom were pelted with dried rose leaves.

Permanent Home For Consumptives.

German Southwest Africa is now being recommended by German physicians as a permanent home for consumptives and young men with tendencies in that direction. The winters are like those in southern California—the air pure and dry, the sky always blue and the temperature moderate and inviting to life outdoors.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or official names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup"—and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

MORE SUBSTANTIAL STICKS ARE NOW THE FAD

New York, Oct. 24.—Walking sticks with elaborate and fancy handles are seen in the hands of well-dressed men once more. For some time the only sticks carried to any extent were the plain slight affairs in bamboo or other light wood. On the avenues are seen a decided increase in the use of more pretentious canes. Gold and silver heads and quaint trimmings in these metals are richly employed in decorating both foreign and domestic styles.

Bigger effects are coming to the front in umbrella handles also. Among the new designs are carvings, representing at the tip and along the sides hunting scenes, carved in silver and very striking in their delicate treatment and variety. One umbrella handle lately shown by a crack haberdasher was of silver in the opera style and had at the point a human skull with a wreath of leaves, all done in sterling.

Shirts, pajamas and vest pocket flaps have shown the initial and monogram fever. Now it has broken out in umbrella handles. It is the fad to have one's initial done in burnt wood or silver.

Feared a Separation.

Her father had read her the parable of the sheep and the goats at the day of judgment. She made no comment, but that night a sound of weeping came from her room. Her mother went as consoler.

"Why are you crying, dear?"

"About the goats. Oh, I'm so afraid I'm a goat."

"Why, no, dearie. You are a sweet little lamb, and if you should die tonight you would go straight to heaven."

With this and like assurance she was finally pacified.

The next night the same performance was repeated, and again her mother inquired the reason.

"It's the goats. I'm afraid about the goats."

"Didn't I tell you, dear, that you were a little lamb?"

"Oh," she sobbed, "I'm not crying about myself, but I'm afraid you may be a goat!"—Brooklyn Life.

The rumble of a distant storm is heard, and in full view of the audience a realistic cyclone descends upon the Kansas farm carrying away the house with the heroine, little Dorothy inside of it. Then by means of a marvelous mechanical effect, the cyclone is disclosed to the audience in all its fury and potency, as it whirled the old house over villages and prairies, over steeples, roof-tops and towering trees until the storm subsides, and the descends in a mysterious region known as the "Land of the Munchkins," which is only another name for fairyland. The third act transpires in the throne room of the Queen of Dreamland, and this is said to excel any stage picture ever shown in a modern spectacle.

As many may be surmised from this brief outline of the story of "The Wizard of Oz" the extravaganza is a most delightful and stimulating entertainment of a spicy but wholesome kind. Three score of pretty girls and

AGNES SORMA—

HARRY WALDEN—

Berlin, Oct. 24.—The affair of the celebrated actress, Agnes Sorma, and the leading German actor, Harry Walden, has been occupying the attention of the Berlin public for some time past. First it was announced that Agnes Sorma's husband, Count Minotti, had filed a petition for divorce, naming Harry Walden as co-respondent, and that the actress had fled to some retired spot in the country to hide herself till the worst part of the scandal was over.

Not long afterwards Harry Walden suddenly disappeared from Berlin, leaving the theatre without warning the management, just before his call to go on the stage as Prince Karl Heinz in "Old Heidelberg." The result was that the performance had to be abandoned and the public sent home bitterly disappointed.

Many reports were in circulation regarding Walden's disappearance, but it transpired that he had not gone with Agnes Sorma, but on one of his periodical sojourns. Walden is a man who lives a quiet, family life for three months, and then goes out on the loose for a week or a fortnight. This occurs regularly every three months, and invariably puts his theater to a great inconvenience, but he is too

BOSTONIANS NEXT SATURDAY.

Henry Clay Barnabee and William H. McDonald have done a prodigious work during the five and twenty years of their comradeship in art, and they are still untired. What a store of mu-

How many thousands of men and women have been refreshed through their ministrations, when the heat and burden of life weighed upon the drooping spirit. To what new delights have they amply constrained us. And how catholic has been the spirit in which they have pursued their quest for wholesome pleasure wherewith we might while away the sad designs that life imposes on us all.

Now that the Bostonians are coming to Newark next Saturday night let us remember these very tangible evidences of their achievement and hail them with the welcome they deserve. It were the least we could do for men and artists who so exemplify the elder day "service that sweat for duty, not for mead."

valuable a man to dismiss.

This time, however, he will have to pay a heavy penalty for breach of contract, and his friends having found him at Innsbruck, in the Tyrol, propose to place him in a sanitarium to cure him of his habit. Walden has a wife and three children.

Agnes Sorma has just signed a contract to play all the winter at the Neues theater in Berlin, and from the date of her first appearance all the seats in that establishment have been booked for six months in advance. The scandal with Harry Walden has been the best possible advertisement.

ANIMATING A SLUGGARD

[Original.]
This is what occurred the day before the annual football match between Princeton and Yale. Allen Pondrus of the Princeton team was a giant in strength and when roused moved like lightning, but it required a galvanic battery to rouse him. Captain Harker of Princeton knew that if he could keep Pondrus galvanized during the game he would win. Knowing also that Pondrus worshipped little black eyed Lucy Meriweather, Harker went to her and begged her to encourage the monster during the game. This was embarrassing to Miss Meriweather, for Mr. Toppliff, captain of the Yale team, was a suitor of hers. Toppliff was rich, and Mrs. Meriweather was determined that her daughter should marry him.
But girls will be contrary, and Miss
Lucy preferred the cumbersome Pondrus.
She half promised Harker to do what she could in the matter.

Just before the game was called Top-pliff approached Miss Meriweather and, giving her a blue flag, asked her to wave it for Yale. He had no time to wait for a reply and hurried off on to the gridiron.

Allen Pondrus, discouraged at seeing a blue flag in Miss Meriweather's hand, hummed about like a ship in the doldrums. During a wait for umpires Harker passed Miss Meriweather and gave her a look which said plainly "Help us." She dropped the flag and joined in a cheer for Princeton. Top-pliff noticed what she did and, passing her a few moments later, looked the other way. This angered her, and she determined to make an effort to rouse
Pondrus's energy.

The men were massed in the center of the field; then came a sudden spreading, and Miss Meriweather saw Pondrus on the right of the Princeton line, gazing at her lugubriously. She gave him the sweetest smile she could call up. Just then the pigskin struck him in the face. He reached for it, but muffed. He tried again and got it.
Dashing off like a twisting arrow, he made toward his goal. A man stood in his way and went down like lead.
Two men tackled him, but he swung his right arm backward, getting rid of one, and, lunging against the other, freed himself. Then commenced the most remarkable run of the season, over more than half the length of the field to goal.

Captain Toppliff was at a loss to know what had so suddenly infused vigor into the principal man of the opposing team. He was soon made aware of the cause. Seeing Pondrus stalk by the grand stand, Miss Meri-weather waved an orange flag to him as he passed. It was plain to the Yale captain that in showing his dissatisfaction with Miss Meriweather he had made a blunder. He resolved to undo, if possible, what he had done. Making his way to the foot of the stand, where the girl sat, he forced a smile. She leaned over the rail, and he spoke to her. What he said no one could hear, though her mother, who sat near, seeing that all was not going well between the two, whispered a few words in her daughter's ear. The result was that during the rest of the first half Miss Meriweather waved a blue flag.
Moreover, Allen Pondrus, who occasionally looked toward her for more smiles, not only did not receive them, but saw the flag of his enemies waved by her fair hands. The change in him was instantaneous.

"What's the matter with Pondrus?"
was the universal cry.

Harker, who had kept an eye on the grand stand and knew all that had happened, contrived to pass Miss Meri-weather and gave her a mute appeal.
Whether it was this or something that had occurred between her and the Yale captain or a desire to show once more her power over Pondrus, she suddenly ceased to regard the interests of Mr. Toppliff and the admonitions of her mother. Before the men lined up again she caught the giant's eye and gave him another smile.

"Look at Pondrus! See him scatter those men! He's got the pigskin! He's going for goal! No! Hello! He's in the open! Julius Caesar! What a kick!"

The giant sent the ball to one of his teammates, who caught it and carried it in a somerersault to goal.

Pondrus, after noting the result of his punt, turned and faced the group about Miss Meriweather. She waved the Princeton colors and gave him a shower of smiles. Toppliff saw it all.
Miss Meriweather's eyes met his, and she knew that she had sinned beyond forgiveness.

Then Pondrus was carried off the field injured, and during the next five minutes what he had gained by his punt was lost. Just before the end Harker got Miss Meriweather to scratch a few words on the back of an old letter asking the giant for her sake to come back and win the game. The device brought him stalking on to the field to the music of Princeton's thundering cheers. His awakened enthusiasm needed to last only five minutes.
The Princeton men contrived to get the ball to him and with almost superhuman strength, breaking away from his clinging enemies, his flanks well guarded, he took a zigzag course for a few moments; then, leaving all behind,
made goal and the game.

The last incident of that exciting game was Miss Meriweather taking a flower from her snowy corsage and pinning it to Pondrus' dirty backskin.

Mr. Pondrus came very near losing Miss Meriweather after all. He was so slow about getting out his proposition that Mrs. Meriweather had a great advantage in favoring a reconciliation with Toppliff. Indeed, the little girl found it necessary to do the proposing herself.

MACEDONIAN AMAZONS WHO LEAD THEIR TROOPS

Sofia, Oct. 24.—One of the remarkable features of the Macedonian insurrection is the enthusiasm of the women in the cause of liberty. They do their utmost to inspire the men with a holy enthusiasm. In a number of cases the women have taken up arms and gone to the front to share the hardships of the irregular warfare waged against the Turks. These Amazons adopt the dress of the insurgents, consisting of a cap of sheep's wool, dyed black, coarse coat and breeches, and huge boots extending up over the knees.

One of the most famous of these women warriors is Kristina Petkova, who goes to battle with her magnificent black hair hanging down her back. She is invariably in the thickest part of the bloody warfare, always in the forefront in a charge. Her enthusiasm is contagious and the men who fight in her vicinity are spurred on to the greatest efforts.

Another Macedonian woman who has gained fame is Katerina Arnavandora, who has displayed not only remarkable courage, but also qualities of leadership which render her presence in a band of great value to the captain. On this account she has been made an officer in Stojanoff's cumband, and has about a score of inferior males under her immediate charge. Although it is estimated that 500 Macedonian women are in the field fighting against the Turks. If they fall into the barbarous enemy's hands their fate is worse than death.

a beautiful young woman.
Kohn has just died in San Francisco.
The woman was known here as
and the woman, who claimed she was
"Dot" Thurman. She was mixed up in the case of Wm. B. Dunton, an employee of the Union National bank, who forged $20,000 worth of checks,

and with the help of George S. Forbes secured the money upon them.

Forbes fired a bullet into his brain.
Dunton, whose wife clung to him all through the trouble, went to Joliet, where he is now wearing stripes and serving a long sentence.

PASTOR PARKHURST.

Now, I have tried to give our visiting evangelist or prophet or whatever he may style himself the benefit of every doubt. I have tried to cover his personality and character fairly and honestly. I have sought to give him credit for everything that can possibly be credited to him; but, leaving done all that, I feel entirely free to go on and say that the baraque that he gave us last evening was all in all simply and unqualifiedly abominable and disgusting.

I confess myself as utterly disappointed. There were quantities of fine, prosperous people in the number of his followers, and there was a large amount of intelligence in the audience, but language so inconsiderate, so scouring, so discourteous, so scolding and so beneath the dignity of the occasion and of civilized people I never heard from any platform. I cannot be encouraged by it, because it was so abominable as to be really more amusing than irritating. The epithets which he applied to his congregation or to certain elements of it at any rate was bound to be offensive to all ears of polite and Christian people.

Mr. Dowie has undertaken a contract that is too large for him. He seems not to understand human nature and imagines that New York people are going to be bulldozed into respect for him and for Zionism. He has attempted more than he is equal to. He is too willfully conscious, he is too coarse grained, he is too ignorant of anything like sagacity and everyday discretion to be able to draw his Madison Square Garden congregation into his love or even into his confidence.

The service in certain portions of it partook very largely of the nature of a circus. He did not damn his audience exactly, but he evidently thought damn, and one is about as profane as the other. He was erratic and mad and lunny. I felt ashamed of him and of his cause and almost ashamed of myself for being there.

Now, as I already have said, I went to the gathering prepared to speak of him and of the service in terms of warm approval. I have heard so much said against him that the very reasons of the charges brought against him operated as a reaction in my own mind and made me all the more desirous of speaking strongly in his behalf.

The congregation was a courteous
one. If there could have been upon the platform a man with as fine a presence as Mr. Dowie and with as searching and carrying a voice as Mr. Dowie's and along with that a spirit as true as that of the original Elijah a great deal of good might have been accomplished, and if any man or any number of men came in there last night not knowing what Christianity is and imagined what Dowie was giving was Christianity the condition of mind of them when they went away would be deplorable.

There were fine looking men on the platform, and it was with amusement that I observed the apparent and indeed evident satisfaction that they took in even the most commonplace and coarse vituperations in which the exasperated prophet reveled.

If the general run of Dowie's services are of the kind which I listened to last night the shorter the time he spends here with us the better for us and the better for the cause which, honestly or hypocritically, he is undertaking to perform.

CLOG DANCE FOR SOCIETY.

Chicago Women Think It Will Tend to Grace and Vigor.

Chicago society is going to take up
"clogging" this winter and elevate the dance from a cheap stage feature to a part of the daily routine in the best homes, says a dispatch from that city.

The reason is not that the dance as a dance is worthy of attention, but society has found that it is an excellent form of exercise, strengthening the muscles and making one graceful. It has been taken up as one of the features of the Woman's Athletic club for its new season, and many of the members have prepared to take instructions.

Miss Alice Gammons, instructor in athletics at the club and recently from the Boston Normal School of Gymnastics and the Gilbert Normal School of Dancing, will teach the clog, and almost every hour of her time has been engaged by well known society women.

Miss Laura Drake Gill, dean of Barnard college, has been appointed adviser to women graduate students of Columbia university, an office created by the Columbia trustees about a year ago.

Q. HOPE JONES

He Delivers a Lecture on Sticking to It.

[Copyright, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.]

CITIZENS of Jackson's Corners—It cost me the sum of $1.50 to bill this town for the entertainment now awaiting you, but I have a feeling deep down in my breast that after the usual collection has been taken up I shall come out at least a quarter ahead and be able to move on to the next town.

The subject of my lecture, as you have been informed, is "Perseverance, or, Sticking to It." Give me liberty or death, but also give me a man who won't let go after he gets hold. Truth, ambition, virtue and honesty are good building stones, but you must have the mortar of perseverance to cement them together.

Let us take the case of Caesar. He began looking ahead when he was ten years old. At fifteen his father wanted to apprentice him to a cobbler, and his mother wanted to establish him in a Troy laundry. He had made up his mind to be a ruler of men and events, but for five years every sort of discouragement was thrown in his way. His father got him into a baseball team, hoping that would satisfy his ambition; his uncle got him a country school to teach, thinking he would in time become an Uncle Ruber; his brother-in-law tried to get him to go partners in the windmill business, and the family doctor said he was threatened with consumption and should put in most of his time fishing.

Some young men would have given up and started out as tin peddlers or joined a circus, but Caesar had the root in his teeth, and he never let go.

It was sticking to it that shored him along until he reached the position where he could send a thousand people to jail by a nod of his head. They bowed in on him at last and finished him off, but that simply came from jealousy. He had lived to elucidate any contention that sticking to it beats a beef trust.

Some of you here at Jackson's Corners, which I find consists of fourteen houses, a store and a blacksmith shop, and is picturesquely situated on three sides of a horse pond, must have heard of Christopher Columbus. At any rate, I will take it that you have and call your attention to the fact that if he hadn't stuck to it we might have been born in Africa instead of the United States.

He first got it into his head that there was an acre or two of land outside of Spain. It took him ten years to make the Spanish believe it, and to this day they haven't got over their surprise. After once getting started he never let up, and he was finally furnished with an outfit and told to sail away and be hanged to him. They had got tired of his gab and wanted to send him to the bottom of the sea, but he didn't go there. He headed straight for America, sure that maple sugar and muskrat skins awaited him here, and even when his sailors threatened mutiny if he did not turn back he would not yield.

No American ought to lie down at night or rise in the morning without blessing the memory of the man who made it possible for us to be born here and grow up to be big enough to wear tall coats and suspenders.

Some lightning rod man may have come along here some day and told you of Napoleon Bonaparte. He probably told you ten lies to one truth, but the truth is interesting enough. There was a boy born on the farm, and a mighty poor farm at that. His parents hardly knew enough to figure out how much four dozen eggs would come to at 13 cents a dozen, and the nearest schoolhouse was three miles away, and the teacher was drunk half the time.

There wasn't one chance in a thousand of that boy making anything of himself above a chicken raiser, but he said to himself that he would rule the world some day, and he stuck to it until he did. He was cuffed by his mother, flogged by his father and rolled in the dirt by all the other boys for a mile around, but he never let go of his idea.

He hung to it and pushed it along, and foot by foot he climbed up. They tied grindstones to his coat tails, but they couldn't hold him down. There was no one to pat him on the head and talk about "Excelsior," but he wouldn't let go. When he did get a start, there were those who did their best to stand him on his head, and he had to fight against envy and malice.

From a farmer's boy to the ruler of the world's destinies! Think of that! He had ambition and energy, but, better than all, he had the stick to it. I notice among the audience a red-headed boy who is half asleep. He is redheaded, freckle faced and snub nosed, and he has probably never been to a circus or had his fill of lemonade, but can I say that thirty years hence he will not be a greater man than Tom Platt or Mark Hanna? If he's got the stick to it under all that red hair, he's bound to get there, and only death can keep him back.

My friends, I don't want to hurt your feelings by making comparisons. I have no doubt that if you had been born when George Washington was you'd have been as big a man as he was and perhaps bigger. It wasn't your fault that you had to wait 160 years later, and I'm not the man to humiliate you. I simply quote him as another successful specimen of the stick to it policy. After he had determined to become the Father of His Country he never let go. He got the worst of it on a hundred occasions, but he felt that hanging on would bring success in the end, and he hung.

And I now come down to Q. Hope Jones, the man who stands before you. I am a living illustration of what perseverance has done and can do. When you look at me you see perseverance itself. My parents were honest and respectable, but my father didn't know enough to sharpen an ax or my mother enough to make catnip tea.

As a baby I was plump shouldered and knockkneed; as a child I was lumpy-backed and had the earache. When I was five years old I didn't know a goose egg from a barn door, but down in my own mind I had a plan. I had determined to become great and famous and to place the name of Q. Hope Jones beside that of the greatest of earth.

Once I had made up my mind I allowed nothing to discourage or dissuade me. I was fed on Johnnycake and buttermilk. I went barefoot in winter and bareheaded in summer. I got up at 4 o'clock in the morning to feed the hogs and sat up till 10 o'clock at night to feed the cows. The only schooling I had was what I taught myself from reading over the tax receipts and mortgages on my father's farm.

As a young man I wasn't looked upon as anything too good to lose corn at 30 cents a day, and those who didn't predict that I would go into the drive well business were sure that I would eventually open a side show with a cannibal for the leading attraction. They threw me down and piled it on to me, but they could not hold me down. I got up to stick to it stronger than ever, and you see the result before you.

Q. Hope Jones stands before you as a man whose name is known from pole to pole, and it is known nowhere but to be honored. Be like me. You can if you will, and it is not too much to hope that my remarks here this evening will incite such aims and ambitions that twenty years hence North America will be ruled from Jackson's Corners. I will now close and pass around the hat, and it is needless for me to say that if any one here has made up his mind to drop in as much as a dime I shall expect him to stick to it and not put me off with three coppers and half a dozen buttons.

M. QUAD.

MAKES WORK EASIER.

Newark People Are Pleased to Learn
How It Is Done.

It is pretty hard to attend to duties with a constantly aching back. With annoying urinary disorders. Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier.

They cure backache. They cure every kidney ill. Amos Fry, shoemaker, of Webb st., says:

"For several years I was never free from pain, a constant sagging pain through my kidneys. It was dull and dead, so that I had to get up and move around if I had been sitting for any length of time. I took several kidney medicines, but I got no good worth speaking about, for I remained just the same. Through a notice in a local paper I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills, which I obtained at Crayton's drug store. They did the work they promised for they completely took all that miserable pain out of my back."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute. 128

BELL FOUNDING.

Is an Ancient Art, Its Origin Shrouded in Antiquity.

The art of bell founding is undoubtedly of great antiquity. The Saxons are known to have used bells in their churches, although probably but small ones, for the Venerable Bede, writing at the end of the seventh century, alludes to them in terms which seem to show that they were not unfamiliar things. The towers of the Saxon period have bellfries of considerable dimensions in most cases, and at Crowland abbey, in south Lincolnshire, there was a famous peal of seven bells many years before the Norman conquest.

The monks at that time and for long after were the chief practitioners of the art of bell founding. Their bells were rarely without inscriptions, often in Latin, containing perhaps some obscure joke, the point of which is quite lost. More often they were of a religious nature, sometimes, we fear, not unmingled with a dash of superstition, as when the bell declares that its sound drives away the demons of the air who caused pestilence and famine, lightning and thunder.

As a rule, unfortunately, they put no dates on their bells, a defect which has been in some measure overcome by the researches of many enthusiastic campanologists, but which is likely to keep the early history of bells shrouded in darkness for a long time to come.—Gentleman's Magazine.

A Remarkable Statue.

Some years ago a melodrama was being performed in a country theater, the chief actor in which had made himself, from his haughty and overbearing conduct, disliked by all. In the last scene he was supposed to visit the tombs of his ancestors. In the center of the stage upon a marble pedestal stood the statue of his father. A heavy fold of drapery covered the figure. Enter Albert, who thus addressed the statue:

"I am here once again to gaze upon those features which in life so often looked on me with tenderest affection. Father, thy mourning son now comes to pay thee adoration. Let me remove the veil which from the vulgar gaze shields the beloved image of a once dear parent!"

Off went the drapery, and behold, the father stood upon his head! The effect cannot be described. It was electric. The shouts of laughter which followed the mistake of the super effectually put an end to the scene, which changed to the next as quickly as possible amid the jeers of the audience, the anger of the manager and the uncontrolled rage of the actor.—London Tit-Bits.

Ran a Ten Penny Nail Through His Head.

While opening a box, J. C. Mount, of Three Mile Bay, N. Y., ran a ten penny nail through the fleshy part of his hand. "I thought at once of all the pain and soreness this would cause me," he says, "and immediately applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and occasionally afterwards. To my surprise it removed all pain and soreness and the injured parts were soon healed." For sale by all druggists.

MASTER OF THE VESSEL.

A Story of Farraught in Command When but Twelve Years of Age.

The story of a boy of twelve years acting as commander of a ship seems rather wonderful, yet Farraught was but twelve years and four days old when he was put in command of the Barclay, a prize ship taken by Captain Porter. In consideration of his tender years, says the author of "Twenty-six Historic Ships," the former English master of the vessel was sent in her for the possible benefit the young prize master might find in his advice. Farraught tells the story of the queer division of authority in his journal as follows:

"I considered that the day of trial had arrived, for I was a little afraid of the old fellow, as every one else was. But the time had come for me at least to play the man. So I mustered up courage and informed the captain that I desired the main topsail flung away in order that we might close up with the Essex Junior. He replied that he would shoot any man who dared to touch a rope without his orders. He would go his own course and had no idea of trusting himself with a blasted nutshell, and then he went below for his pistols.

"I called my right hand man of the crew and told him of my situation. I also informed him that I wanted the main topsail flung. He answered with a clear 'Aye, aye, sir,' in a manner that was not to be misunderstood, and my confidence was perfectly restored.

"From that moment I became master of the vessel and immediately gave all necessary orders for making sail, notifying the captain not to come on with his pistols unless he wished to go overboard, for I really would have had very little trouble in having such an order obeyed."

Odd Hair Styles.

Some of the New Hebrides people do their hair up in a bunch on the top of the head and stain it yellow, while the inhabitants of Ombai island pass it all through a tube so as to make a kind of plume. The Marquesas chief's favorite method is to shave all the head except two patches, one over each temple, where he cultivates two horns of hair. No doubt this is to render him more a thing of terror to his enemies than of admiration to his friends. His reason for shaving the rest of the head is to allow more space for tattooing, as if all the available skin of the body were not enough.

Not Yet.

"They're saying you're just like all the other members of the house," remarked the newly elected legislator's close friend. "They say you have your price."

"That's a lie," declared the new member.

"Yes, I haven't got it yet, but I have hopes."—Philadelphia Catholic Standard and Times.

Cutting It Short.

"How long can you stay?" asked a hostess who had received an unexpected visitor coolly.

"No longer than I can help," was the crisp reply. "I have telephoned to have my trunk stay at the depot and to notify me of the first train I can take home. So sorry I can't stay longer."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Easily Explained.

"Strange that after being on the top of the ladder he should fall so suddenly."

"There was a woman at the bottom of it."—Jude.

A Paradox Explained.

Why does not a man weigh a pound more immediately after eating a pound weight of food? A little reflection will readily explain this apparent mystery. During the process of mastication, deglutition, etc., certain muscles are brought into active play, and the exercise of any muscle necessitates a temporary waste of its tissues, and a certain amount of carbon is eliminated and passed off during the course of the meal. This loss, however, is trifling as compared with that due to respiration and perspiration, both of which are increased during the various operations of making a meal.

The length of time one may take to consume a pound of food makes but little difference to those losses, for if it is eaten leisurely there is but slight increase of respiration or perspiration, whereas if it is hurried through both are abnormally accelerated. Hence by the time the pound is eaten the consumer has lost appreciably in moisture and carbonic acid.

He Was His Own Grandfather.

Of all genealogical curiosities the one set forth below is probably the oddest—a singular piece of reasoning to prove that a man may be his own grandfather! Here it is: There was a widow (Anne) and her daughter (Jane) and a man (George) and his son (Henry). This widow married the son, and the daughter married the father. The widow was therefore mother (in law) to her husband's father and grandmother to her own husband. By this husband she had a son (David), to whom she was, of course, great-grandmother. Now, the son of a great-grandmother must be grandfather or granduncle to the person to whom his mother was or is great-grandmother, but in this instance Anne was great-grandmother to him (David); therefore David could not be other than his own grandfather.

Prodigality of Life in Ancient Egypt.

The reckless prodigality with which in ancient Egypt the upper classes squandered away the labor and lives of the people is perfectly startling. In this respect, as the monuments yet remaining abundantly prove, they stand alone and without a rival. We may form some idea of the almost incredible waste when we hear that 2,500 men were occupied for three years in carrying a single stone from Memphis to Sais, that the canal of the Red sea alone cost the lives of 120,000 Egyptians and that to build one of the pyramids required the labor of 300,000 men for twenty years.

A Remarkable River in Spain.

There is in Spain a river called the Tinto, which has very extraordinary qualities. Its waters, which are as yellow as a topaz, harden the sand and petrify it in a most surprising manner. If a stone falls into the river and rests upon another they both become perfectly united and consolidated in a year. It withers all the plants on its banks as well as the roots of trees, which it dyes of the same hue as its waters. No fish live in its stream.

She Guesseed Right.

"Did the spiritualistic medium tell you anything that was true?" asked the willing believer eagerly.

"Oh, yes," replied the hard-headed individual.

"And that was?"
"That I spent my money foolishly, which was right. You see, I had paid to hear her tell me that."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Delightful Prospect.

"Do you," said the learned counsel, "swear that you will tell the truth, the whole truth and—"

"Oh, Low Jocky," the fair witness interrupted, "shall I really be allowed to talk all the afternoon if I want to?"—Tit-Bits.

Good money is faithless. It leaves us almost as soon as we get it. Bad money, however, sticks to us to the bitter end.—Baltimore American.

GENIUS SEEKS DIVORCE FROM HIS INSPIRATION

HIS ALLEGATIONS CONSIST OF A POTPOURRI OF PINK WRAPPERS, KISSES, A FRENCH MAID, SHIMMERING RED LIPS AND A REGIMENT OF CORRESPONDENTS.

New York, Oct. 24.—This is the story of a pink silk wrapper, said by those who have seen it to be a wonder of the modiste's art, a pretty woman, the wife of an artist-lecturer-soldier-sculptor, a rustle that sounded like a kiss, but might have been the rich voice of a heavy silk dress, a husband who thinks he has been duped, a wife who denies it, a French maid with a piquant accent, eight more or less interesting co-respondents and other thrilling details.

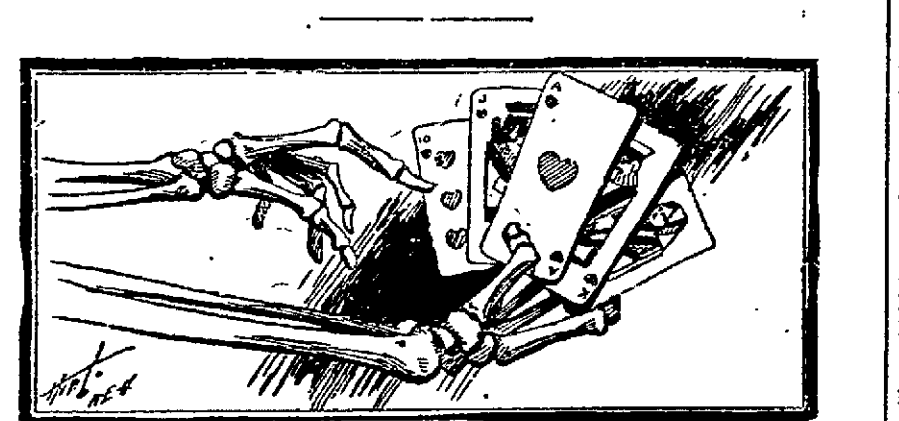

A jury of married men are hearing this story.

It is all about Robert Hughes, who has made lovely woman smile from a column of marble; who has molded her delicate features in clay; who has made lips that shimmered red as cherries and mutely invited caresses from unresponsive canvas; who has eulogized a strand of wind-blown hair in poetry and has risen to the highest flights of oratory over the gleam of a flashing row of ivory teeth; whose prose has made of woman the noblest work of God, and who, while dabbling in politics, has stood ready to draw weapons in behalf of the fair.

Yet he couldn't live with the woman who furnished him the inspiration for all this and more. He accuses the inspiration with being a monster.

The eight co-respondents come from various walks of life. War literature, music, law, science and idleness are represented. It is alleged that the

AGE IS HIGHEST IN SWEDEN LOWEST IN ENGLAND.

And is Rising in America—Some Countries Fix a Minimum Marriage Age Says "Sun."

The average marriage age for men does not differ materially in those countries which keep accurate marriage records, says the New York Sun. It is highest, 31 years, in Sweden, and lowest in the United States, 26 1-2. Among women it is also highest in Sweden, 28 years, and lowest in Russia, 22.

Some countries fix a minimum marriage age, below which a marriage cannot be lawfully performed. In most parts of Germany it is fixed at 21 for the bridegroom and 18 for the bride. In England it is 16 and 15 respectively. In France it is 18 and 15 respectively. In the United States, where fixed, it is usually 21 for the men, the exceptions being California, Tennessee, Utah and Idaho; and for women, usually 18, except in Maryland, California and Tennessee. The different state statutes, however, make it possible for two residents of a state to be married in another state the laws of which are more lax.

In European countries generally the marriage laws are made exclusively for the benefit of actual residents, and a choice of foreign country for such purpose is, therefore, so unusual as to become an exception.

There is only one record in history of a law which fixed a maximum age for marriage and under which the marriage of men over 60 and women over 50 was prohibited. It did not last long.

The European country in which there is the largest number of marriages of men under the age of 21 is Russia, and the largest proportionate number of brides under the age of 21 is in Russia also. Generally speaking the marriageable age is lowest in rural districts and in countries chiefly devoted to agriculture, and highest in those countries which have the largest number of big cities.

In respect to marriages made late in life, France, among European countries, stands first as to men, and Belgium first as to women. Denmark, the country which has the lowest minimum marriage age, has very few marriages of very young persons. In the United States the average marriage age is steadily rising.

"ANN" PARTY

Fellow Who Had Attended One Caught Figuring on a Chicago Patrol Box Arrested

He was figuring on a patrol box with a piece of chalk.

x equals Ann's age.

x equals Ages Ann.

x equals Mary Ann.

x equals Ann's anything.

"Here," said the patrolman, "what are you doing?"

"Hist," cautioned Ernest Kastlow. "I'm getting it. Put down the 1 and carry the 6. Twice Mary is what Ann ought to be."

"There, there, now," soothed the officer, "come along with me and we'll talk it over."

So pretty soon the wagon backed up and they got in and rattled over the Chicago streets. The next morning—that was yesterday—Kastlow appeared in the Sheffield Avenue police court. He told the judge that he had been to a How-Old-Is-Ann? party—that is the very latest thing in parties, by the way—and for three hours he had wrestled with the nerve-sizzling problem.

After it was over he took a few drinks, to get a new start, and began anew. Justice Mahoney would have let him go, only the justice has figured Ann to be 16, and Kastlow disagrees with him. So, all because of Ann, Kastlow was fined $5 for creating a disturbance.

But they're just one red collection Makes me glad, as sure's you're born!

Gee, I'm glad I'm not out there Cuttin' corn!

Spanish needles in yer jumper An' yer threadbare overalls;

Cockleburrs as thick as hops that's growin' on the garden walls;

Dead ole blades that keeps a-sawin' At yer blistered neck an' ears;

I recall it just as easy As it did when ye was tired.

With the long day's tug an' rustle That the farmin' work required,

But ye'll never catch me frettin' Ner a-pluin' round, forlorn.

While I realize I'm safe from Cuttin' corn!

She had heard a great deal about heaven, and she had also heard considerable about the other place. As usual, her idea of the other place was much less hazy than her idea of heaven. People are not very specific when they speak about heaven.
